

WORRY CLINIC

Eileen is desecrating "true love" by confusing it with mere sexual infatuation. And no do millions of other teenagers, which is why over 25 per cent of marriages soon end in divorce. Scrapbook this case and always employ the yardstick for true love, as outlined below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-415: Eileen G., aged 18, was one of my coed psychology students at Northwestern University.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," she moaned. "I am so upset I don't know what to do."

"For I am in love with a college freshman named Bill. And he says he is madly in love with me, too."

"Whenever I see him or even hear his voice on the phone, I get tingly all over and have butterflies in my stomach."

"I simply can't live without him. So I suggested that we elope and get married."

"But he says he must graduate before we marry. But if we both love each other with all our hearts, isn't that enough?"

"How can he love me if he refuses to get married?"

LOVE vs. SEXUAL INFATUATION

Eileen is not involved in a case of "true love."

She is simply infatuated on the basis of personal magnetism and physical appeal.

Teen-agers beware! For you must use your head more than your heart if you wish to tell the difference between "true love" vs. the phony variety which is sexual infatuation.

In both types, you grow tingly and breathless. You feel as if

2-A—Gazette Telegraph
Wednesday, July 8, 1964

butterflies are fluttering in your stomach.

So you dare not rely on your physical reactions, for they can lead you astray.

To distinguish between true love versus physical infatuation, use this simple yardstick:

In true love, the focal point is on what is best for the OTHER person; not yourself!

But in sexual infatuation, the focal point is on one's own selfish desires, rather than the best interests of the other party.

By using this simple yardstick, you readers can easily see that Eileen does not truly love Bill.

For it is definitely NOT in his best interests that he drop out his plan to render service to mankind by becoming a dental surgeon.

Eileen would figuratively be a millstone around his neck and very likely be embroiled in a divorce case within a year or two after the novelty of sexual infatuation had dwindled.

Then, overwhelmed by debts and with Bill's inability to hold down a good job because of his lack of schooling, they'd be leading a cat and dog existence.

For a beautiful example of true love, just read Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities."

Therein Sidney Carton found that his sweetheart was really in love with Charles, who was to be guillotined.

So Sidney Carton visited Charles in prison and prevailed on him to change clothes, so Charles could slip out.

Sidney Carton then went to the guillotine in his place to give his sweetheart greater happiness. That's the unselfishness of real or TRUE love.

See tomorrow's follow-up.

"Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets."

Supersonic Airliner Designed by Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—The head of Soviet Union's Aeroflot airline says Russian designers are working on a supersonic airliner and hope to have it flying before the United States gets one aloft.

Yevgeny Loginov told a news conference Tuesday he could not predict the speed of the Soviet plane, but it would be faster than the 1,450-mile-an-hour Concorde airliner on which Britain and France are collaborating.

The Concorde is scheduled to enter service in 1970. The American plane, expected to be bigger and faster, will not be ready then.

NEW COMPANY AIDS SMALL BUSINESS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Small businessmen now are able to honor more than 90 different credit card systems through affiliation with the Credit Card Acceptance Corporation.

The Florida-based organization, with main offices in Fort Lauderdale, supplies a confidential list of the varied cards which have been approved. Their ready recognition of credit, according to many members of the plan, has spurred extra sales and profits.

Edward Kennedy At Odds With Private Nurse

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., is at political odds with his private nurse.

The daytime nurse for the Democratic senator at Cooley Dickinson Hospital is a staunch Republican who says she has no intention of joining her patient's political camp.

Esther Madden is a member of the Republican town committee in her hometown of Amherst.

"Sen. Kennedy has been trying to make a Democrat out of me ever since he discovered I am a Republican, but there is not a chance in the world—and I've told him so," Mrs. Madden said.

Mrs. Madden said Kennedy had even enlisted the help of Richard Cardinal Cushing in his campaign.

She said: "When Cardinal Cushing came to visit at the hospital, Senator Kennedy jokingly told him he was being cared for by a Republican nurse."

"The cardinal, with equal wit, suggested that I say the Rosary as my penance for being a Republican in the room of such a prominent Democrat."

Mrs. Madden added: "I'm not even a Catholic. I'm really a minority in this room."

Mrs. Madden is a private duty nurse who has worked the 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. shift in Kennedy's room since he was brought in with a broken back suffered in a plane crash last June 19.

Mrs. Madden said Kennedy is "a wonderful patient even if he does belong to the other political party."

A spokesman for Kennedy said: "Non-politically, Mrs. Madden is a wonderful nurse."

Some people hoard silver dollars in the hope that the rising price of silver will make the coin worth more as metal than money.

"Of course I heard you. You were arrested yesterday for walking down Main St. in the nude."

Thanks to the many neighbors who responded to an emergency telephone ring Sunday evening the fire started by lightning in Pat Gieck's soil bank was kept pretty well under control. It did burn almost a half section however. Mayo and Bob Anderson brought over a cattle sprayer.

Virgil Gieck used his tractor with a blade on it and the Ellicott Fire Department came. Besides the many men with sacks and water. It was just south of our house but the wind shifted from the north or it would have come this way. Our thanks as well as Pat Gieck's to all of you.

It was decided to continue church services on Sunday nights until later. The Rev. Green will conduct services next Sunday night at 8 p.m. with Sunday school at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Arlie Hamilton will have Ladies Aide at her house Wednesday, July 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geist and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Duane Edenborough and boys Saturday night.

Krieg Bellmyer has just recovered from the mumps, so they are still among us.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sopko, Jr. and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gieck and Penny Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Agnes Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Webb and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bevrige and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hite were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Baker Sunday. Katie Devorss called in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crum, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Huggins and family of Idaho, and Mr. and Mrs. Wally Brown and family were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Huggins and family Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Houtchen and family spent the Fourth of July with Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gieck and girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rasner and Pamela visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sams Sunday afternoon.

Claudia Anderson is staying with her mother, Mrs. Williams, in Colorado Springs, as she is quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Price spent Friday night and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geist and family. Bonnie has been enjoying a week's vacation. She returned to X-ray school Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rasner also called.

Dean Sams and Dale West combined wheat for Harry Geist Monday.

The 4-Hers were unable to tour Boys Ranch at La Junta Sunday, as the boys were going to the mountains. A later date will be set.

4-H Dress Revue will be held at the Miami school this year on July 14. Everyone is welcome to attend and see the seamstresses of the future model their clothes. The 4-Hers are asked to bring cookies.

The annual Home Coming held each year at the Leader Methodist church will be on August 9. The usual dinner at noon is being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Gieck and boys were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gieck and Penny the 4th.

Mrs. Arlie Hamilton visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hamilton at Ellicott Tuesday afternoon.

Shirley Eichman and children visited Viola Rasner Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hamilton and son visited Arlie Hamilton Saturday afternoon.

Margaret Vickery and children spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gieck.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rasner and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geist and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Hitchcock and Darlene Wednesday afternoon and picked cherries.

Johnson Plans New Proposals

By KARL R. BAUMAN
JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—

President Johnson is "highly pleased and gratified" at Congress' record, but he is cooking up new proposals he feels will move the country toward his concept of a "Great Society."

Johnson believes enactment of the sweeping civil rights law has cleared the way for tackling such problems as metropolitan area growth; the growth of interlocking federal, state and local responsibilities and finances; health, education, and gearing the governmental structure to an age of science and technology.

White House sources relayed Johnson's views to newsmen covering his holiday stay here and said the chief executive already has a number of task forces at work on long-term planning.

Until the various studies are finished, the President is not about to put a price tag on the proposals that ultimately may be submitted to Congress for new legislation.

Johnson has been trying to project the image of an economy-minded administration. But he is represented as feeling that while the people want sound and prudent fiscal management, they also want the government to respond with compassion to human needs.

The President has not ruled out the possibility of further civil rights legislation, but no determination can be made, he feels, until the effects to the bill he signed last Thursday are assessed.

In the foreign field, Johnson is claiming to be well satisfied about the transition of new American leadership in South Viet Nam, his conferences with Greek and Turkish leaders on the critical Cyprus problem and his first meeting with a Latin American chief of state, President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica.

When he gets back to the White House — it is not known when the President will end his Texas holiday — Johnson intends to talk with both outside experts and heads of various government departments and agencies about long-term planning in the various domestic fields which he feels need attention.

THIEVES STEAL GEMS

LONDON (UPI)—Thieves stole between $56,000 and $112,000 worth of diamonds on display at London's Natural History museum early Monday.

The diamonds, in the museum's mineral section, were taken from a glass case in a first floor gallery, officials said.

U.S. Cold-Shoulders Castro's Latest Bid
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The port of subversive activity United States has given the cold against Cuba. A State Department spokesman said Monday that the United States is standing by its position that neither Castro's ties with the Soviet Union, "which are tantamount to Soviet domination," nor Cuba's "promotion of subversion" can be a subject of negotiation.

Castro was quoted in an interview with the New York Times as saying Cuba would cease its material support of Latin-American revolutionaries if the United States and its allies would agree to withhold material support.

Burma Buddhist Monk Burns Self to Death

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A Buddhist monk burned himself to death Sunday in front of a sacred shrine 12 miles from Rangoon. There was no indication of his motive.

Bystanders rushed toward the monk, Shin Ardissa, 54, as he touched a match to his kerosene-soaked robes, but his body was immediately engulfed in flames.

Commies Switch Center of Viet War Operations

force outpost of Nam Dong Monday had just moved in from North Viet Nam. The Communist unit was beaten off, but with severe government losses.

Two other Viet Cong attacks were launched in the region Monday. Vietnamese officers say one of the attacking battalions moved into Viet Nam recently from Laos. Another battalion had come into Viet Nam from the Cambodia-Laos area late last year.

An American spokesman told newsmen in Saigon that he was baffled as to the real reason for the sudden concentration of Viet Cong effort in the central area.

"Some people say this is normal with the rainy season coming down around the delta area," he said. "Others say the Viet Cong are trying to divert us from the pacification effort in the south. Who knows what they are really trying to do?"

Other American sources say the Viet Cong may be trying to take advantage of the concentration of government troops in the delta.

"The Viet Cong may have decided to hit us at our weakest point," one U.S. adviser said.

23 Presidents of Colleges Tour Colorado College

Rastall Center, and student housing facilities at the independent liberal arts college.

Colorado College is one of 11 colleges and universities to be visited by the group. They will visit the Air Force Academy July 11 following the tour of Colorado College.

Among the college administrators from Colorado taking part in the tour, which starts July 5 at Miami, Fla., and ends July 16 at Stanford University, are:

Donald A. Oden, director of the student union at Colorado College; James A. Bower, director of civil engineering at the U.S. Air Force Academy; and Homer C. Kelly, president of Lamar Junior College at Lamar.

The tour, sponsored by Educational Facilities Laboratories and the School Planning Laboratory of Stanford University, is aimed at improved planning for community colleges, one of the fastest-spreading phenomena in American education.

The growth pattern of these two-year education institutions was underscored by the opening last fall of 20 new community colleges. According to the American Association of Junior Colleges, community college enrollments are expected to jump from the current figure of 790,000 to more than 2 million by the fall of 1975.

As a result, according to estimates by the United States Office of Education, between $3.2 and $4 billion will have to be spent on buildings and facilities for community colleges between now and 1975.

The 60-tour participants represent institutions whose enrollments are expected to increase from 186,453 to 510,072, or more than 270 per cent, by 1972. They project construction outlays of nearly $1 billion for the next four years. The projections include 20 new community colleges to be planned in the next year alone.

Institutions to be visited, such as Colorado College and the Air Force Academy, boast some of the most significant and exciting new developments in college facility design. Each of them has tried at least one new idea that has departed from the traditional pattern for college buildings or campus planning.

Four participants were selected on the basis of their institutions' anticipated enrollment growth and construction activity over the next four years and their geographic location.

"Among the planning factors to be stressed on the tour are: overall campus planning, the design of facilities for the new instructional media, such as television, and the design of flexible instructional space to meet changes in educational programs."

In Suburbia, where the mores are such that crabgrass on a man's lawn can lower his status faster than a garbage can in his foyer, the weed can cause neighborhood rifts. One California homeowner, fed up with the host of ills that beset his soil, planted his lawn in ivy. His vigilant neighbors slapped him with a lawsuit for violating a neighborhood compact kept "in a good and husband-like manner."

Manitou Springs Seeks Water Improvement Plan

The vote was called. The large tank faction, Mrs. Willie, Lee and Jordan, voted to adjourn.

The small tank faction, Frank Altman, Nevins and Cochran, voted against adjournment. Longaker allied himself with them to break the tie.

Before he voted, the mayor had City Attorney Blakemore McCarty give the opinions of the Colorado Municipal League and State Attorney's office on the legality of a mayor voting to break a tie. McCarty replied that he believed it was legal for a mayor to vote to break a tie in a second class city, if ordinances were not involved.

Jordan told the city attorney that Longaker was out of order and asked the city clerk to record in the minutes that discussion had been cut off.

Longaker then asked for a vote on Cochran's resolution to hire Sterns Rogers and have a two million gallon tank.

Councilmen voted in the same two factions. Longaker voted again with the small tank block, then declared Cochran's motion passed.

The mayor called for committee reports.

Instead of a report, Jordan said that Nevins had told him with a witness present, that he'd better quit following policemen around or "something would be done about it." Jordan is on the police committee and Nevins is its chairman.

In addition to approving engineers and a small water tank, the council:

- Heard complaints that horses were munching asters and causing other problems in East Manitou. Horse lovers were out in force. They appeared relieved when the city attorney reported there was no ordinance against having horses in the city.

"This is rather a horsey town, and rightly so," said Longaker. "There's just nothing that we can do at this particular time on this particular subject."

- Authorized tapping of the eight-inch Crystal Park water main.
- Gave the street committee the job of investigating vacation of Rio Via El Rancho (a street), in the Garden of the Gods Village.
- Left the question of the deposit of escrow funds from sale of water bonds up to the city treasurer, clerk, mayor and bonding companies.
- Approved or tabled various licenses.

Called a water committee meeting tonight, of the whole council, with the water engineers.

"The most important thing to be done at this time," contended Lodge, "is to strengthen South Viet Nam militarily and politically so that if and when an international conference does take place for the purpose of pacifying or neutralizing Southeast Asia, the Communists won't be able to take advantage of South Viet Nam weakness. At present our biggest task is to give South Viet Nam real strength and power."

Seeking a more explicit answer, Senator Thurmond pressed Lodge for a categorical statement on "carrying the war to the North."

"I am opposed to that at this time," he replied. "The risks involved in escalating the war are far greater than in concentrating on building up the military and political strength of South Viet Nam. In my considered judgment, that is the course to pursue."

"Do you feel that something should be done about stopping the flow of Communist weapons and supplies into South Viet Nam?"

"Measures should be taken to effectively close the Cambodian border," said Lodge. "That can be done in two ways; by setting up teams of United Nations observers and strengthening South Viet Nam's border guards."

"What about the recent bombing of Communist gun positions and camps in Laos?"

"While that involved some risk," said Lodge, "I considered it necessary as a warning to the Pathet Lao and Red China that we mean business and will not tolerate continued provocation."

Lodge told the Senate committee that the "military situation in South Viet Nam is slowly improving," and expressed the belief that the "Mekong River Delta will be cleaned up in the next two years"—indicating by implication that he expects the protracted war to continue at least that much longer.

The former ambassador voiced opposition to that, and supported the administration's position.

When Jordan started to discuss the activities of R. W. Beck and Associates, water engineers hired during the administration of former Mayor Earl Pitcock, Longaker declared Jordan out of order.

Jordan countered with a motion to adjourn the meeting. He had ready support from Lee who seconded the motion.

Lodge Approves Demo Policy In Viet War

of administration policies and support of them.

With literally no qualifications, Lodge endorsed and lauded what the White House, State and Defense Departments have done and are doing in Communist-occupied South Viet Nam.

Similarly, he vigorously rejected the strongly advocated proposal to "carry the war to the North"—at this time.

In every respect Lodge's testimony directly and explicitly contradicts the views of arguments of leading Republicans assailing the administration's policies and record. His pronouncements are a complete refutation of the GOP stand.

It goes without saying the Democrats are jubilant.

Indicative of how they feel about Lodge's highly gratifying performance is that President Johnson has taken the time and trouble to carefully read the entire transcript.

If and when it will be published by the committee is conjectural. Meanwhile, insiders of both parties have copies and are pouring over them minutely.

WHAT LODGE SAID
Senator J. William Fulbright, Ark., chairman, who has close White House and State Department ties, questioned Lodge extensively on whether there had been any differences or disagreements between him and the administration.

The tenor and nature of Fulbright's interrogation was manifestly carefully prepared to obtain a record for possible future use—such as the election campaign.

Illustrative is the following: Fulbright: "In the months you spent in South Viet Nam, did you at any time have any disagreements or disputes with authorities in Washington?"

Lodge: "No, I did not, at no time. I received full cooperation from the President and the State Department. There was never any strain or dissension between us."

Fulbright: "Did you make any new or personal recommendations?"

Lodge: "Yes. They related primarily to the command structure. I felt it was essential that the ambassador have complete control over all U.S. activities there, military as well as diplomatic, economic, and political. I felt they could not be separated and that the ambassador should have supervisory control over all of them."

"For example: If one of our generals wanted to take up a matter with an official of the South Viet Nam government, I considered it advisable that the ambassador should know about that before the meeting as well as afterwards. It should be checked out with him both times."

Fulbright: "Was this recommendation approved?"

Lodge: "Yes, it was. It was approved and put into effect. That's the way I operated, and I'm quite sure that's the way General Taylor, who replaced me, will operate."

Fulbright: "What about the Defense Department; did you have cooperation there?"

Lodge: "Yes, I did. I made certain recommendations and all were approved. I particularly recommended the initiation of a very vigorous counter-guerrilla program. That was approved and is now beginning to have real effect. At no time did I have any difficulties with the Defense Department."

AGAINST ESCALATING WAR
Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who has been sharply critical of some South Viet Nam policies, questioned Lodge closely about extending the war to Communist North Viet Nam.

The former ambassador voiced opposition to that, and supported the administration's position.

When Jordan started to discuss the activities of R. W. Beck and Associates, water engineers hired during the administration of former Mayor Earl Pitcock, Longaker declared Jordan out of order.

Jordan countered with a motion to adjourn the meeting. He had ready support from Lee who seconded the motion.

The mayor called for committee reports.

Instead of a report, Jordan said that Nevins had told him with a witness present, that he'd better quit following policemen around or "something would be done about it." Jordan is on the police committee and Nevins is its chairman.

In addition to approving engineers and a small water tank, the council:

- Heard complaints that horses were munching asters and causing other problems in East Manitou. Horse lovers were out in force. They appeared relieved when the city attorney reported there was no ordinance against having horses in the city.

"This is rather a horsey town, and rightly so," said Longaker. "There's just nothing that we can do at this particular time on this particular subject."

- Authorized tapping of the eight-inch Crystal Park water main.
- Gave the street committee the job of investigating vacation of Rio Via El Rancho (a street), in the Garden of the Gods Village.
- Left the question of the deposit of escrow funds from sale of water bonds up to the city treasurer, clerk, mayor and bonding companies.
- Approved or tabled various licenses.

Called a water committee meeting tonight, of the whole council, with the water engineers.

"The most important thing to be done at this time," contended Lodge, "is to strengthen South Viet Nam militarily and politically so that if and when an international conference does take place for the purpose of pacifying or neutralizing Southeast Asia, the Communists won't be able to take advantage of South Viet Nam weakness. At present our biggest task is to give South Viet Nam real strength and power."

Seeking a more explicit answer, Senator Thurmond pressed Lodge for a categorical statement on "carrying the war to the North."

"I am opposed to that at this time," he replied. "The risks involved in escalating the war are far greater than in concentrating on building up the military and political strength of South Viet Nam. In my considered judgment, that is the course to pursue."

"Do you feel that something should be done about stopping the flow of Communist weapons and supplies into South Viet Nam?"

"Measures should be taken to effectively close the Cambodian border," said Lodge. "That can be done in two ways; by setting up teams of United Nations observers and strengthening South Viet Nam's border guards."

"What about the recent bombing of Communist gun positions and camps in Laos?"

"While that involved some risk," said Lodge, "I considered it necessary as a warning to the Pathet Lao and Red China that we mean business and will not tolerate continued provocation."

Lodge told the Senate committee that the "military situation in South Viet Nam is slowly improving," and expressed the belief that the "Mekong River Delta will be cleaned up in the next two years"—indicating by implication that he expects the protracted war to continue at least that much longer.

The man named to head the Community Relations Service under Hodes, said the service would merely act as a conciliation force in any civil rights disputes.

In Washington, Collins told senators he looked on his nomination as director of the service as the greatest challenge of his lifetime.

"We approach this with charity and understanding and not with malice toward anyone," he told the Senate Commerce Committee at a hearing on his nomination for the $22,500-a-year job.

A Negro teen-ager said at Bessemer, Ala., that he and four companions were beaten by white men with baseball bats when the Negroes took seats at a white lunch counter. One of the companions was injured. They charged Negroes "are being intimidated, terrorized and are afraid to exercise their basic right to register and vote."

backers don't really believe they can win."

"You can't give up before the campaign starts," Scott said. "Governor Scranton believes that he can beat President Johnson. He has won before against odds and he'll win again."

Goldwater said in the interview that, as of today, no other Republican had a chance of defeating Johnson in the South. He added that while he wasn't saying that he could do so at the moment, "come election day there is going to be another horse race." He made it clear in this respect that he was speaking not only of the South but the nation at large.

Scranton, scheduled to arrive here for a mid-afternoon airport rally and news conference, said before he left Chicago that Goldwater's people are using "every conceivable kind of pressure and threat" to keep the nomination away from him.

Appearing on a national NBC television program, the Pennsylvania governor said: "They are trying to create a political steamroller unparalleled for its toughness, its callousness, its total disregard for the opinion of rank and file Republicans."

State to Present New Apportionment Bill

The Democratic objections centered upon two points—the spread in populations of districts and the districting of large counties for establishment of legislative seats within the counties.

House districts vary from a high of 33,653 to a low of 20,302 and Senate districts show a spread from 42,761 to 64,617.

The bill was passed. The Senator business before the legislature during the session, which opened a week ago today.

House Speaker John Vanderhoof, R-Glenwood Springs, told the House members, "My best guess is there will be an approval by the court."

Hearing arguments on the bill will be Circuit Judge Dean S. Breitenstein and U.S. Dist. Judges Alfred A. Arraj and William E. Doyle. A year ago this tribunal, with Doyle dissenting, upheld the apportionment system then in effect in Colorado—known to voters as Constitutional Amendment No. 7.

Five Men Are Lost in Blast Of Explosives

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—Cyanamid's 535-acre tract, located five miles west of New Castle and 80 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

The cause has not been determined. There was no immediate estimate of damage. At least 11 persons—two of them housewives—were injured. A police officer suffered a fatal heart attack while directing traffic.

Four explosions—all within an hour—ripped through American manager, said the first blast occurred about 10:30 a.m. in the nitroglycerin house.

The blasts knocked out windows, disrupted telephone service and started several fires. Residents were urged to stay off the streets in New Castle. Edinburg, a community of 450 three miles from the plant, was evacuated for five hours. All roads leading into the plant were closed off. Only ambulance crews and fire fighters were permitted in the area. More than 100 workers were reported in the operating area at the time of the blast. The plant employs about 250.

QUADS "DOING FINE"

LONDON (UPI)—Quadruplets were born to 33-year-old Mrs. Patricia White at Roundhill Maternity Home, hospital authorities said Monday. All were reported "doing fine."

The two boys and two girls were born Sunday within two minutes and weighed between 3 pounds and 3 pounds 10 ounces. Mrs. White's husband is an engineer.

Foreign Lobby Bill Tightened by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate approved and sent to the House Monday a bill tightening controls over lobbying in this country by agents serving foreign interests.

Among other things, the measure would prohibit these agents from using funds from foreign employers to make political contributions and would require the agents to report political contributions from their own pockets.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Government Creates Poverty

The government, under the jures the prospects of American Johnson administration, says it can. It is that the dollars they are making a war on poverty do get won't buy the things they want and must have. It is not a government is to redistribute dollar scarcity that is at fault.

The assumption of course, is that is forced into the market by making this redistribution by federal manipulators that the persons who have "too much" will lose some of what they have, and the people with "too little" will get some of it. This is calculated to cure the problem of poverty.

But it should require something less than a graduate in economics to show that such a procedure is doomed to fail of its declared objective—although, it is not too difficult to presume that the real objective is to win votes as a result of much ballyhoo about the alleged concern for all the impoverished folks in the nation.

If the total wealth of the nation is let us suppose, $500 billion and this sum is not increased but is simply shuffled around again so that the same sum constitutes the total, it would follow that no lasting change would have occurred.

True, some who were poor before, may now be less poor. But by the same token, some who were less poor before, are now more poor. The total is the same.

The shift will have interfered with freedom all the way around and the end result insofar as any real alleviation of poverty is concerned, is zero.

But there is a way some real progress could be made. That would be for the government to stop interfering with the pricing mechanism of an open market.

If government stopped its "price-support" programs entirely, prices would drop. If they did, more people could buy more goods, for the goods would cost less. This would serve as an incentive to businessmen to produce more and better goods at cheaper prices. This would stimulate the market, provide more jobs, make the cost of living less, expand our productive facilities.

Persons to be most benefited by an elimination of price supports would be those on small incomes of $3,000 per year or less. At the present time, government price-support programs unnecessarily penalize the less productive worker, making him pay more for the necessities he must buy.

Let's take some specifics. Prices of flour enjoy a support program. This support is now being boosted by as much as one penny a pound. This will create an upward pressure on the price of bread. Persons in low-income groups are the largest consumers of bread and flour. Thus, new high prices for these products will hit the very persons hardest that the administration says it is trying to help.

Again, coffee prices are being pegged at a uniform high price. Every time the price of coffee rises one cent per pound, the increase takes about $35 million from consumers, most of whom are not receiving large wages.

Milk prices in most metropolitan areas are kept up by government marketing regulations. Federal milk orders increase the price of milk to consumers by about 5 per cent. These same orders adversely affect other dairy products, too, thus pushing up prices in these staple commodities to the detriment of those least able to buy on the basis of large incomes.

Other commodities in the food lines which are kept high by Uncle Sam, in a frantic effort to be of some use to everyone, will add in providing profits for him.

If the man turns out to be a liability, that is, if he does not earn profits for the employer, then that man should be replaced by one who will earn profits.

This seems to persons who are not acquainted with the market place, like a kind of heartless procedure. But is it?

Thus, as is so often true, federal intervention in the market, do you feel heartless when you ostensibly to help those who are vulnerable to high prices, cover it is improperly assembles to penalize them. It isn't bled, of poor quality or other, a lack of income that most in-wisely inferior and you reject

Allen-Scott Report

Federal Poverty 'Czar'

WASHINGTON — Congress is headed for a major battle over the sweeping powers President Johnson is seeking for his "poverty czar."

Scheduled to begin in the House and Senate after the Republican national convention, the "big debate" on the poverty program could have as far-reaching an impact on the coming presidential campaign as the fallout from the new Civil Rights law.

Aides of Senator Barry Goldwater who voted against the Civil Rights bill, say he is ready to oppose the poverty program unless the legislation is drastically changed to curb the powers of the federal government and give state and local governments bigger roles.

Senator Goldwater, leading GOP presidential candidate, will have the full backing of Senate and House Republican leaders on this highly crucial and political vote. They are privately saying President Johnson's program could stir up a "nightmare of trouble" throughout the country rather than stamp out poverty.

The dark heart of this growing GOP opposition centers around the unprecedented authority proposed for the director of the "Office of Economic Opportunity," due to be set up in the White House under the present legislation.

Under the Johnson administration proposal now before the House Rules Committee and the Senate Labor Committee, this office would be run by a "poverty czar" empowered to select the local agencies or private groups to receive funds under the billion-dollar poverty program.

This "poverty czar" would also have the power to determine the criteria for approval. The only authority accorded state governments is the right of a governor to comment on projects carried out in his state. This is so meaningless as to be insulting. Local public officials, however, are not even given this empty courtesy. The relationship is clearly that of master and servant.

Job Security

We have been reminded that at one time, "going to his final resting place" meant getting a job with the Civil Service

The Real Benefactor

Which man is the greater? Of course not. You paid benefactor? The one who gives out good money for something all his surplus to charity? Or the one who invests his dollars in productive enterprise?

We do not mean to disparage charity. Kindness and generosity are worthy traits in human character. But the fact is that the man who invests his dollars in productive enterprise is doing more good with his dollars, usually, than he could do by a most noble outpouring of money into all the charities you can name.

Why is this? Because most charities are end products in themselves. They exist, in our distorted market, in such a way that they do not engender multiplication of human effort. This is not to say that a charitable operation of a hospital or some other worthy charity does not employ people. Of course it does. And it does a fine job, too, if it is well managed.

But the merit of enterprise is in the productive character of enterprise. When money is employed for business and industrial investment, that money is used for the purpose of making profits. And charitable organizations do not and are not able to make profits. Thus, money in business, breeds more money. And that money breeds more money. And so on. It is an endless chain and the chain expands, if the market is let alone and businessmen are left free to profit.

Which is better? To provide a beggar with a good meal; or to provide the beggar with a job? A good meal may be an act of kindness. But a job is a device wherein the beggar can improve himself and be a beggar no longer.

Jobs are provided, rightfully, not as an act of kindness, but because profits are being sought. The businessman who hires another does so because he is motivated to enhance his own profits.

He hires a man, not because he must of necessity love the man. He hires the man because he believes that man can and to be of some use to everyone, will add in providing profits for him.

If the man turns out to be a liability, that is, if he does not earn profits for the employer, then that man should be replaced by one who will earn profits.

This seems to persons who are not acquainted with the market place, like a kind of heartless procedure. But is it?

Thus, as is so often true, federal intervention in the market, do you feel heartless when you ostensibly to help those who are vulnerable to high prices, cover it is improperly assembles to penalize them. It isn't bled, of poor quality or other, a lack of income that most in-wisely inferior and you reject so have the tremendous power of setting the criteria on how the money was to be spent, and would be given a free hand to draft rules and regulations governing the operation of a 40,000-member Youth Corps.

LIFTING THE LID
A preview of the coming public GOP attack against the President's program was outlined by Representative Peter Frelinghuysen, R.N.J., in his little-noticed testimony before the Senate Labor Committee.

A respected leader of the "moderate" Republicans on the House Labor Committee, Frelinghuysen carried his opposition to the Senate after the Democratic majority in the House committee beat down all GOP attempts to curb the powers of the "poverty czar."

While vigorously supporting federal aid to fight poverty, Frelinghuysen attacked what he termed "the unparalleled powers vested in the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity — the poverty czar."

He bluntly warned that the creation of this powerful new federal position "opens the way for direct federal involvement in the activities of every private organization in every community in the country without the necessity of participation or approval of either state or local government."

Pointing out that "as the bill is now written, there is no role for the local or state governments," Frelinghuysen charged: "If this bill is enacted, the poverty czar would be empowered to pick and choose between private and public agencies in the granting of billions of dollars in federal funds."

"This bill vests in a federal czar both the power of approval of all poverty programs and the more basic power to determine all the criteria for approval. The only authority accorded state governments is the right of a governor to comment on projects carried out in his state. This is so meaningless as to be insulting. Local public officials, however, are not even given this empty courtesy. The relationship is clearly that of master and servant."

THE BACKLASH
When Senator Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., challenged the New Jersey legislator, contending that the bill did not bar the "poverty czar" from using state agencies, Frelinghuysen lashed back:

"This is what I resent. This gives him unwarranted powers. If we think that we should utilize state agencies in one way or another to make a distribution of funds to alleviate the problems of the poor, it seems to me we have an obligation to spell that out."

"What if a state would not cooperate?" asked McNamara. "I think it unwise to give the federal government the power to give the NAACP or any local citizens' group which might not even be representative of the community, wherever it is, to use federal money to do something that community or state does not want," replied Frelinghuysen.

Stressing that "this is a very sensitive area of federal-state relations," Frelinghuysen concluded:

"This bill charts a new and unjustified course for governmental responsibility in general and for the federal role in particular. It proposes a federal bureaucracy whose influence

THE U. N. A DETRIMENT

To the Editor:
Do you know that the U.N. Charter and Covenant of Human Rights offers, then denies freedom of religion, freedom of the press, freedom of speech, property rights? All these rights are guaranteed by our Bill of Rights. The U.N. would deny them all. In U.N. Covenant of Human Rights, Article 13 denies freedom of religion. Article 14 subjects freedom of speech and of the press to restrictions, penalties, and liabilities. Article 17 denies property rights; no trial by jury.

The UNESCO is the U.N. propaganda machine. Madame Jégalo, former head of Soviet Education, has served as head of division for high school material. Supported by our N.E.A., through UNESCO the children are influenced away from their national allegiance and indoctrinated with the ideals of world government. U.N. wants to break down the walls of national sovereignty. Their object, no national pride. They teach our children our heroes were no good, our constitution is a failure and try to substitute atheism in place of real religion.

They have to get the children to believe these lies before their reasoning powers develop, when they could look at the world and see that there is no atheistic nation able to hold their people together except by permeate every nook and cranny of civic responsibility—public and private.

"I cannot conceive of such intervention being in the best interest of liberal democratic institutions. As a political slogan, 'War on Poverty' appeals to the generous instincts of most citizens. As legislators, however, we have an obligation to look at the propriety of methods proposed to fight poverty."

"We have an obligation to assure that the first casualties of such poverty war will not be those principles of American democracy which have made possible the most determined and most successful war on poverty in the history of the world."

NOTE: One of the main drafters of the President's poverty program was Adam Yarmolinsky, one of the most controversial officials in the administration. A special assistant to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Yarmolinsky is "on loan" to Sargent Shriver, acting director of the poverty program.

CAMPAIGN
In the past 70 years the Democrats have elected four men to the presidency. All of the seven Republicans elected President during that time have leaned to the right except Eisenhower. There was no communist buildup in the Executive Department prior to 1929. The right-side leaning has attained the title of "conservative" and the opposite leaning "liberal." A Republican increase in the governorships and Members of Congress is not likely to occur except with a conservative Republican in the White House.

Unless the Republicans campaign for highly constructive, conservative policies, they may as well fold their tents and surrender the part they would like to play in U.S. government to the Fabian or other socialists to become a communist regime as per the prescription of Khrushchev, who says, "We cannot expect the Americans to jump from capitalism to communism, but we can assist their elected leaders in giving Americans small doses of socialism, until they suddenly awake to find they have communism."

Friends and citizens, let's dedicate our talents, our money, our newspapers and magazines to this main job of getting out of the U.N. and sending the U.N. out of the United States. We must have many changes in our Congress and main offices. These men have voted to rob us. The worst robbers are the ones who rob their own friends and benefactors. Vote 'em out.

TRUE SPIRIT

To the Editor:
My summer guest from Kenosha, Wisconsin presented me with an article written in the Voice Of The People in one of his home newspapers as follows: By Nora Belle Binnie:

It is fitting to be impressed upon us that our country has been favored by God in many ways and that we have a responsibility in the use that we make of these favors.

Our country has been favored with scenic beauty and fertile soil. It has been favored with many varied natural resources — rich and precious.

It has been favored with people voluntarily coming from various countries to seek freedom and to become citizens, and when a challenge has been put before them, they have met it loyally and courageously.

Our country, in the forming of a new government, was favored with far-seeing, hard-working, conscientious and unselfish men who framed for us our written constitution which has given to us the most successful democratic government in history.

"Democracy is the most difficult form of government. We have shown that we could do what was hard," said President Woodrow Wilson.

We can claim with pride all of these favors, but when one is given as a visible gift, what does he do to cherish it? And what are "we, the people" doing to show our appreciation for these favors bestowed upon us?

Are we, as citizens, jealously demanding in our public servants the traits which our forefathers handed down to us?

Are we who are public servants sincerely living up to our pledge in the oath of loyalty to the United States?

Are we all guarding our inalienable rights guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States?

If so, we are showing a genuine spirit of appreciation for our gifts and a sincere love of our country, if not, we are showing a lack of true American spirit.

World Government

By GEORGE BOARDMAN
My wife has a wonderful disposition. She is disinclined to exhibit her temper without good cause and usually she manages to control it even under trying circumstances but today she blew a fuse when she received a solicitation from United World Federalists.

"Suppose you had no cop on the corner..." Of course, there just are not that many cops in the first place but imagine the reaction evoked when my wife received a solicitation which began with such a stupid pitch. My wife is only 31 years of age but during her life time she has never lived where there was a cop on the corner, except by accident, and she's lived in Nebraska; Arkansas; in Santa Monica, Van Nuys, California, and for more than two years in Chloride, where the closest cop is 25 miles away and it is the most law-abiding or peace-loving community in which she has ever lived.

United World Federalists profess a profound addiction to the word peace. They want the oppressive power to enforce what they call peace through a permanent United Nations international police force and I have a suggestion for your consideration. Check on the increase in the crime rate in your metropolitan city on a per capita basis, then multiply that by an international police force and you'll know what to expect. Since every type of police force has a vested interest in the matters which they police, any reduction in crime and violence places every police-type organization in grave jeopardy for obvious reasons.

The United World Federalists, just in case you feel that the name covers the subject with a little left over, is an affiliate of the world association of world federalists and the world federation of world federalists may even now have organizational plans on hand for the inter-planetary federalists, world of planetary federalists and space federalists, unlimited. This is known as social progress and every bit of it will further enslave every man, woman and child on this globe, not to mention the millions of children yet unborn.

I am not going to publicize the names of the officials and endorsers because they obviously employed publicists for that purpose but the list will go into my file and add to the list of the names of men and women in high places who have already exhibited their unthinking dedication to world government. These are acknowledged leaders of the socialist conglomerate at work.

N.I.H. GRANTS

To the Editor:
The following are excerpts from a report of June 30, 1962 of a study made by the House Intergovernmental Relations Subcommittee of the administration of grants by the National Institutes of Health (Reexamination of Management Deficiencies), House Report No. 1958:

The committee found that National Institutes of Health is not adequately organized to administer the grant programs with maximum effectiveness. At present NIH makes commitments for the future support of projects in specified amounts for periods as long as 8 or more years. Ordinarily there is no further review of project requirements during this period, and the amount of the grant is paid automatically each year upon request.

The committee has found disturbing evidence of the abuse of grants by commercial firms. Although NIH relies upon the grantee institutions for the effective management of grant funds, NIH conceded in hearings that adequate administrative machinery does not presently exist, either in NIH or in the grantee institutions, to insure that this responsibility is being met.

Freedom for the scientist should not be confused with license or fiscal irresponsibility. One cannot condone waste and extravagance wherever it exists as being either in the public interest or in the interest of science. Grant money that is uneconomically or inefficiently spent deprives other scientists of support for their work. Moreover, the injudicious use of research funds is grossly unfair to the American public which is required to support this activity through taxation.

What we must achieve is a harmonizing of freedom for the investigator with responsibility to the public in the expenditure of government funds. NIH has the obligation to develop adequate policies and procedures believe this is important. I suspect that the vast majority of females possess too much intelligence to want to stake the lives of their children on the actions of any international police force, whether such action is connected with the U.W.F. or any other world government organization or affiliate. I am sure the U.W.F. feels keenly the lack of support from thinking females and suspect that's why my wife received the solicitation — and that brings something else to mind.

My wife would not join or support any organization without first discussing it with me and I treat her opinion with the same courtesy but imagine the predicament I would face if my wife happened to be a different kind of young woman and I suddenly discovered she supported the U.W.F. unthinkingly. It would be rough, to put it mildly, and this reminds me to again thank her for being Dawn, thinking individualist.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No. 537: As the old saying goes, "There is no honor among thieves." Could any economic system work successfully without a fairly high standard of morals among those practicing it? Where do moral values come from?

Answer: The questioner here appears to be making some kind of association between thieves and a free market system. Either this is an attempt at humor that doesn't quite come off, or it relates to a basic misunderstanding of serious import.

Of course no economic system can work successfully without a fairly high moral standard. The merit of the free market system here, as opposed to all centrally planned and regulated economies, is that a high moral standard is part of the system. All centrally planned economies depend in whole or in part upon restraint, theft and coercion.

The free market system is one that depends for its success wholly upon voluntary choices. Hence, since no one wants to be robbed, the truly successful operator in a free market may neither rob nor condone robbery. Of course, an occasional act of spoliation can occur. But if it is continued, the market itself will reject the despoiler.

Where do moral values come from? Moral values are always subjective and come from each individual's own relative value scale. But moral principles are not the same as moral values. Moral principles derive from things as they are.

Because of the nature of man, and through long experience, we have learned that men survive best, with the largest degree of comfort and security, when a free market system, based on private ownership of property, is in vogue.

All property, of whatever kind, has a boundary. Moral concepts arise from a respect for those boundaries. The moral man will not trespass the boundary of another. The free market system is one that respects the boundaries of all others and exists because of this respect.

In the free market system, the customer is king. This means that each person may voluntarily do as he pleases with his own property. Morality results.

A free market system and a high moral system are one and the same thing.

for assuring that grant funds are prudently spent within this context.

"The committee is concerned by reports of the widely held attitude of scientists toward NIH grants. It is apparent to the committee that many scientists regard their grants as personal resources and use surplus funds that remain after providing for necessary project expenses for nonessential purposes, rather than return surplus money to the government."

"The committee recommends that NIH formulate grant principles which will clarify the moral obligations of the scientist as a trustee of public funds."

"According to the NIH criteria for rating grant projects, the average quality of such projects has been steadily declining in recent years. The proportion of the best projects (the 100-199 group) has declined while there has been a corresponding increase in the proportion of supported projects in the lowest priority class (the 400 - 500 group)."

"It is probable that the large annual increase in the NIH appropriation made in the past several years has contributed to the increasing support of lower quality research."

"It appears that the Congress has been overzealous in appropriating money for health research. The conclusion is inescapable, from a study of NIH's loose administrative practices, that the pressure for spending increasingly large appropriations has kept NIH from giving adequate attention to basic management problems."

The National Institute of Health budget for 1965 as passed by the House in April is $1,045,242,000, an increase of more than $70 million over the 1964 appropriation.

The NIH is the agency that administers grants for research in medical institutions, including profit-making laboratories, and in other research facilities throughout this country and in a number of institutions in other countries.

In studying the enclosed excerpts from a House subcommittee report of a reexamination of management deficiencies in the NIH, bear in mind that it is the taxpayers' money — your money that is being so over-zealously appropriated each year by the Congress and it is your money that the NIH is so carelessly spending.

Many of the researchers who automatically receive grants year after year are inflicting the same abuse in animals year after year. They are under no compulsion to coordinate their activities or to inform themselves about past or current research.

The NIH budget request for 1965 goes next to the Senate for action where it may even be further increased, if the pattern of other years is followed.

So if you object to such carelessness by the NIH with your money, let your senators know. Please ask him to pass your views along to the Senate Appropriations Committee before it acts on the 1965 appropriation.

MEAT COSTS

To the Editor:

I read your remarks about the "Investigation of Meat Costs" and you swallowed the Farm Journal article hook, line and sinker. The big flaw in the entire article is in one set of costs figures — the $68.48 in the processing costs of the chain.

I have facts showing another chain costs for processing runs less than $10.00 per carcass. Ridiculous, you say. So do I. Some one is hiding the true facts and that is what the cattlemen have been trying to get for the past eight years.

this chain that I am speaking of showed a net profit of over $30 per carcass and then turned that invested dollar over more than twenty times in a year. If a cow man can net $30 off of one cow in a year, we figure that we have had a pretty good year. I also have some figures that show an additional $30.58 of profit due to the price received by the farmer and the price paid by the consumer — profit to the retailer during the recent low live prices and the lack of price decrease to the consumer.

This entire marketing process is much too complex to go into in a letter. The cattlemen need facts on which to act as an industry, so we are not groping in the dark. The consumer is spending around 18 per cent of her income for food today, where just a few short years ago it was close to 25 per cent.

Our product — BEEF — is still a bargain to the housewife.

The retailers are certainly not going to open their books to us or to give up anything in the way of useful information unless it is strongly slanted in their favor.

Hence, the turn to government, NOT for new legislation, but in a sincere effort to try to get the information that we need in order to arrive at a sensible solution to our problem. At this point let me point out the fact that our skirts (producers) are not entirely clean. Because we have stayed clear of government controls and because there are thousands of producers operating under widely varying circumstances it is virtually impossible to keep production under control or in line with the demand with our product — another complex problem.

In short, the conclusions that you drew so swiftly on the face value of one article by the Farm Journal by a reporter (experience in marketing unknown) who ran out and made a quick survey, disturb me a great deal. I was chairman of the marketing committee for the Colorado Cattlemen for over six years and have been on the Livestock Committee for two years for the Packers and Stockyards Division of the U.S.D.A. and I still can not find the true facts or anything that approaches a workable solution, if in fact there is one, at this time. I wish that I could be so satisfied with the Farm Journal's article, but too many facts tell my good sense that they were all wet in their conclusions.

ROBERT C. NORRIS
T-Cross Ranch
Route 3

Editor's note: We are pleased to have Robert Norris' note and appreciate his point of view. However, there is nothing he has said to disprove the accuracy of the editorial to which reference is made. Mr. Norris admits that he hasn't been able to come up with the facts, which seems to us to be a rather poor place to stand from which to discredit facts offered by another.

We don't doubt for a minute the accuracy of Mr. Norris' observations. And the weak spot of our editorial relates to the obvious fact that ONE PARTICULAR ANIMAL was pursued through the various stages from farm to family table. A second animal might have had an entirely different history. And it is obvious that no firm is going to stay in business if it continues to experience consistent losses.

Mr. Norris contends that he knows of one firm that averages better than $30 per carcass. If he has allowed for all taxes, depreciation costs and overhead, we say hurrah. But we don't know any more about his figures than we know about the figures used by the Farm Journal. Also, he says that if a rancher can earn a net of $30 per animal he feels lucky. The farm animal followed by the Farm Journal lost the rancher more than $30. Obviously no one can stay in business that way.

We suspect that Mr. Norris is having some problems in making the discovery that the very reasons he turns to the government for help turn out to be areas in which the government doesn't help.

The cattle business is like any other business. It has its ups and downs. It has its problems. Some people make money in it and some do not. But what the cattlemen have generally done is highly commendable. They have, in general, stayed out of federal and state regulatory channels more than many other producers. Unfortunately, they have become involved in tariff protections, in meat marketing orders and in statistical gathering, in which the government and the taxpayers are involved. And certainly the cattlemen are being taxed within an inch of their lives and within pennies of poverty.

If chain stores are making the profit on beef that is sometimes suggested, their stocks are listed on the stock exchanges and should be excellent investments for cattlemen as well as others. If cattlemen have knowledge of larger profits by chain stores than in their own line, they are free to purchase chain store stock and share in these "large" profits.

Chain stores are also like any other business. They have ups and downs. There have been a number of articles recently regarding the trouble the largest grocery chain of all, A & P, is having in maintaining its competitive position. In the free market no business has an easy time satisfying its customers. The fact that customers can pick and choose from various businesses is the cause of our high standard of living but this freedom of choice on the part of customers keeps businesses of all sizes constantly at work to satisfy the consumers.

We would like to suggest that without any government regulation the cattlemen would be in a better position, as would meat processors, jobbers, markets and so on, to set reasonable prices on their goods and services, and to make a profitable operation. With so many regulations from the beginning to the end in the business, the margins are pitifully small all the way around, which is what our editorial sought to show.

Florida Governor Heads Community Relations Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Florida Gov. LeRoy Collins says his nomination as director of the new Community Relations Service is "the great challenge of my lifetime."

President Johnson named Collins to head the service, which was created by the new Civil Rights Act to help local communities resolve differences over discriminatory practices based on race, color or national origin.

"We approach this with charity and understanding and not with malice," Collins said Tuesday at a Senate Commerce Committee hearing on his nomination to the $22,500-a-year position.

Collins was highly praised by Florida's two Democratic senators, George A. Smathers and Spessard L. Holland.

But Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., spent 45 minutes reading editorials from Southern newspapers attacking a speech made by Collins in Columbia, S.C., last Dec. 3.

Collins said the editorials apparently were based on an incorrect Associated Press report of his speech, later corrected.

(The AP account inaccurately quoted Collins as saying the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was fostered by "Dixie battle cries which incite sick souls to violence.")

Rare Trumpeter Swans Have 11 New Offspring

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Federal game officials reported today that rare trumpeter swans have produced 11 young this year in a refuge near Martin, S.D.

Latest figures list only 2,100 trumpeters in the United States and Canada. The flock in and near Lacreek National Wildlife Refuge in South Dakota numbers 38.

Candy Store Owner Converted by Kids

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After a show of force, a dozen kids have converted a candy store owner to their way of thinking. Their way of thinking is that when you are at a candy counter trying to make up your mind you don't have to be rushed.

They considered that Antoine Mufarreh was rushing them in her Nob Hill market. So they marched on the store and protested.

Mrs. Mufarreh agreed they should not be rushed at such a critical time. She went further. Would they like to come to her house for some free candy?

They would. And afterward: "She's a very nice lady," said 4-year-old Kevin Fregosi, savoring a mint. "She sure is," said Becky Houston, 5, contemplating her lollipop.

AGROUND

LONDON (AP) — The channel ferry Arramanches gave 677 French schoolchildren an unexpected thrill today. It ran aground off the south coast of Britain.

The rising tide refloated the 2,404-ton ship and the children were landed at Newhaven Pier. There were no casualties.

Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph E. McAleer, 47, chief cartographer of the National Geographic Society, died Tuesday after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. He was born in Washington.

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) — George W. Smith, 55, international president of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, died Tuesday. He had been president since 1956 of the 7,000-member union.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prof. Reginald William James, 73, a member of the famed antarctic expedition led by Sir Ernest H. Shackleton in 1914-1916, died Tuesday. James was a professor emeritus at Cape Town University, known for his work in X-rays and crystallography.

Funeral Industry Probe Launched By U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee opened hearings today into the "high cost of dying" and heard witnesses from the funeral industry tell of abuses in prices and selling, and unveil a proposal for correcting them.

Wilbur M. Krieger, managing director of the National Selected Morticians, Evanston, Ill., told the Senate subcommittee that his trade association had suggested 27 rules to the Federal Trade Commission "for the elimination of abuses in the funeral field."

He said some of the criticisms and charges against the funeral industry—which he noted had triggered such headlines as "Death Cost Too High" and "The Undertakers' Racket"—are justified.

"But," he added in his statement, "there are many criticisms which are based only on isolated instances of abuse and misrepresentations of fact." He said it is a fringe minority "which preys on the elderly and the bereaved" and damages the reputations of other funeral directors.

The rules that the trade association has proposed, he said, would strike at such sales pitches as these:

"Stating that the law requires a deceased to be embalmed when such is not the fact."

"Stating that the law requires the use of a burial vault when such is not the fact."

He said the rules would also cover such practices as:

Paying secret kickbacks to hospital and coroner employees for steering "a prospective customer" to a mortician.

Saying that a complete funeral costs $750, for instance, when there are additional charges or services not included.

"Price-fixing agreements, or other combinations or conspiracies which restrict competition."

The hearings by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, under Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are aimed at uncovering any possible restraint of trade and anti-trust aspects in the burial industry.

One witness, Edmund J. Ober-ton, a Janesville, Wis., mortician, said he had been suspended from the Wisconsin Funeral Directors Association for making his price ranges public.

"I am confident that we are not the only funeral firm which has been asked by the Wisconsin Funeral Directors Association and the National Funeral Directors Association to agree to suppress truthful funeral price information," said Ober-ton.

A San Francisco funeral operator, Nicholas P. Daphne, said he believed the mortuary industry in his area and in California was guilty of restraint of competition.

"Almost all doors are closed," he said. "There is a massive effort to preserve the status quo."

New Party Will Seek Posts For Negroes

DETROIT (AP)—A newly-created Freedom Now party—dedicated to electing Negroes to public office—has become an unknown factor in Michigan's political balance of power this year.

The third party qualified officially for the ballot when it filed some 22,000 signatures requesting certification last May. Since then, Freedom Now leaders have announced plans to put up at least 25 candidates for Congress, the state legislature and other offices.

The organization has caused some concern to Democratic party officials who realize that any major shift of the traditionally Democratic Negro vote could be disastrous in tight elections. In the past, some Negro precincts have given Democratic candidates as much as 80 per cent of their vote.

Chairman of the new party is the Rev. Albert Cleage Jr., pastor of Detroit's Central Congregational church, who claims the Freedom Now candidates will capture at least 100,000 votes this fall.

Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency scoffs at the estimate, but he admits there is some concern about just how many votes will be siphoned off by the new party.

Some have praised the movement's avowed goal of "independent, black political action." Others have denounced it as a Negro parallel to the segregationist philosophy of the white Citizens Councils of the South.

Foreign Cadet Included in AFA Class of 1,000

Among the more than 1,000 members of the Air Force Academy's Class of 1968, one "Doodle" can lay claim to a unique distinction.

Armando P. Castro, 22, Pandacan, Manila, Philippines, is the sole foreign cadet included in the new class — largest ever to be admitted to the Academy.

Cadet Castro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Castro, joins two of his fellow countrymen, Roberto S. Barangan and Abraham Estavillo, in the Wing.

There are presently a total of six foreign cadets at the Academy. In addition to the three from the Philippines, there are Cadets Eduardo Castillo, Bolivia; Jorge E. Portugal, Peru; and Prabaddh Riddhagni, Thailand.

The newest of the foreign cadets brings an outstanding scholastic record with him. He was salutatorian and president of his class at the M. A. Roxas High School in Manila.

Cadet Castro also served as Corps Commander of the Department of Military Training at the high school.

He graduated from Feati University this year with a BS in Physics. At the University, Cadet Castro was a member of the Physics Society and vice president of his class. He received two college scholarships.

Cadets Castillo, Barangan, Portugal, and Riddhagni were the first foreign nationals admitted to the Academy. They entered in 1962. Cadet Estavillo began his studies in 1963.

Friday Funeral Rite Set for Ralph Dunn

Funeral services for WO Ralph A. Dunn, 24, of 3000 N. Cascade Ave., will be 10:30 a.m. Friday in First Methodist Church. Rev. Philip Green and Chaplain T. Quelch will officiate and burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Dunn, who died June 29 in South Viet Nam, was born June 26, 1940 in Urbana, Ill. He came to Colorado Springs in 1951 from Urbana, Ill. He married Sandra Rutt of Colorado Springs, July 29, 1962, and attended Colorado Springs schools.

He joined the U.S. Army in 1959 and was a warrant officer with the 114th Aviation Command Air Mobile Light.

WO Dunn is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sandra L. Dunn, Colorado Springs; a daughter, Miss Carrie Dunn, Colorado Springs; his mother, Mrs. William Allen, Colorado Springs; a brother, Richard Dunn, Hollywood, Calif.; and a sister, Mrs. Leonard Headrick, Colorado Springs.

Olevia Brown to Be Buried Thursday

Funeral services for Mrs. Olevia L. Brown, 75, of Route 3, will be 11 a.m. Thursday in Swan Funeral Home. Dr. W. G. Schaefer will officiate and burial will be in Spring Valley Cemetery.

Mrs. Brown, who died Tuesday in her home, was born July 9, 1888 in El Paso County. She was a lifetime local resident.

She is survived by her husband, Frank T. Brown, Colorado Springs; two sons, Leonard N. Brown and Orville G. Brown, both of Colorado Springs; a brother, John Norvell, Englewood; four grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Three Fined on Reckless Charges in City Court

Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher Tuesday fined three persons for reckless driving.

Pauline Kronback, 43, of 2237 E. Boulder St., received a $35 fine, and Charles Hula, 39, of Denver was fined $50 after his attorney, James Tarter, changed the defendant's innocent plea to guilty and waived the taking of testimony. A careless driving charge against Hula was dismissed.

In the third reckless driving case, Alex Gallegos, 30, of 224 N. Franklin St., was fined $50. The judge suspended $25 of the fine. Charges of careless driving and injury to city property against Gallegos were dismissed.

In other traffic cases the judge found Thomas Crocker, 18, of 2016 Winston Rd., guilty of careless driving and fined him $25. Donald Williams, 38, of the Air Force Academy, was also found guilty of careless driving and fined $20.

The judge found William Frazer, 32, of 2608 Weir Ave., innocent of careless driving.

Injury to city property and careless driving charges against Karen Ecker, 23, of 1627 Auburn Dr., were continued until August 19 when the defendant will receive a jury trial. Attorney Brian Mullet entered pleas of innocent on behalf of the defendant.

Also set for a jury trial was the case of Johnny Taylor, 38, of 313 E. Vermijo St., who is charged with disorderly and riotous conduct and breach of the peace. Judge Asher set the case for trial on Aug. 18 after attorney George Silvola appeared on behalf of the defendant.

Carson Vehicle Registration Passes 10,000

Registration of private motor vehicles at Ft. Carson reached 10,669 on July 2 as part of reregistration at the mountain post. Safety stickers are required too for all registrations regardless of state registrations of the vehicles involved.

There were 6,400 vehicles registered by enlisted men — 2,964 by the upper three grades. Officers accounted for 1,438 registrations. Civilian registrations totaled 1,950 including commercial vehicles.

There were 111 temporary permits on file. Retired personnel with Carson stickers included 498 non-commissioned officers and 383 officers, including three general officers.

The 10,669 figure compares with 9,583 registrations late in May before troops had returned from Exercise Desert Strike. Since then more than 500 vehicles have left Carson and new registrations are being made as part of the usual summer changes in assignments.

There are 200 more registrations of retired personnel than in May reflecting the constantly increasing number of families who are considering the Pikes Peak region as their permanent home.

S. Sgt. Ben Cramer is non-commissioned officer-in-charge of the vehicle registration office assisted by Spec. 4 Walter Mousseau and PFC Terry Wilson as permanent staff. Their office is located in Bldg. 6050 which is south of Carson Gate No. 1 just off Nelson Blvd.

Cramer explains on the safety sticker requirement that any proof of a state safety inspection that is current is valid. Cars registered in states not requiring a safety inspection must have a Colorado inspection and proof of such an inspection to be registered at Ft. Carson.

Speeder Fined $20 in JP Court Tuesday

James R. Burrus, 20, 2237 E. Boulder St. was fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Tuesday for speeding. According to State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson the defendant was driving at 80 miles per hour in 60 and 50 zones north of Colorado Springs Friday.

Jack B. Andrews, 46, Ft. Carson, was charged with careless driving on Colorado Highway 115 July 1 and fined $5 and costs. Ken Shiflet was the state patrolman.

State Patrolman Dan Morrissey ticketed Dennis Eugene Oliver, 18, Fountain, for driving at 42 miles per hour in a 30 zone on Cheyenne Road Thursday. A $10 fine and costs was imposed.

Morrissey also ticketed David D. Bradley Jr., 19, 528 Cheyenne Rd. for the same violation which happened Thursday on Cheyenne Road. According to the officer, the defendant was traveling at 38 miles per hour in a 30 zone. He was fined $10 and costs.

Improper backing on Morning Star Drive Tuesday cost Reginald Pritchard Jackson, 76, Woodland Park $5 and costs. Ken Shiflet was the state patrolman.

Shiflet cited Catherine Emmeringer Swinford, 53, Cascade for speeding and having improper mufflers. The officer said the defendant was driving at 40 miles per hour in a 30 zone on Brookside Street June 30. A $15 fine and costs was imposed.

Harry Ashley, 41, 833 N. Circle Dr., $25. John Gray, 53, 123 1/2 S. Cascade Ave., $25. Harry Powell, 43, 2426 W. Platte Ave., 30 days, and L. C. Robinson, 30, no address, 10 days.

A charge of drunkenness against Elizabeth White, 51, of 512 E. Kiowa St., was dismissed.

Betty Metzger, 20, no address, and Mildred Cook, 19, of the St. Charles Hotel, both pleaded innocent to charges of vagrancy. The judge set bonds in the amount of $50 for each and continued the cases to a later date.

Continued until July 13 was the case of Ramon Pacheco, 19, of 232 S. Institute St. Pacheco is charged with disorderly conduct and riotous conduct.

Division Aids In Search for Lost Plane

Aircraft of the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) answered calls for help Monday and Tuesday south and west of Ft. Carson.

Capt. Billy J. Baucum flew a photo reconnaissance mission with Spec. 4 D. C. Vogt as observer over the White River Wilderness area July 7 at the request of the Civil Air Patrol which is searching for a lost civilian plane. Both of the Carson men are from Company B, 5th Aviation Battalion.

Photographs taken by the reconnaissance camera will be enlarged and searched for evidence of the aircraft which has been missing since June 28.

Four of the division's newest OH-135 reconnaissance helicopters were airborne early Monday within an hour after a request from the Trinidad area was received. Their mission was to search for a missing three-year-old boy lost since 11 a.m. on Sunday, July 5.

Pilots were Capt. James E. Gauze, 5th Division Artillery; CWO Clarence T. Jones, Company A, 5th Aviation Battalion; CWO Ambrose E. Hill, and WO Thomas E. Dutton, both of 4th Squadron, 12th Cavalry. Enlisted observers with them were Spec. 5 W. E. McEwen and PFC Richard Kelley, both of the cavalry.

The boy was found they were told when they reached Trinidad.

These flights supplied training opportunities for the personnel taking part.

Pair of Veteran Early Birds Fail to Attract Real Support

(This is the second in a series on the forthcoming National Republican Convention — Ed.)

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

A pair of veteran Republican party workers and office holders who made early bids for the GOP presidential nomination haven't gotten very far down the road so far.

They are Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, senator from Maine, and Harold Stassen, Philadelphia lawyer and former governor of Minnesota.

Mrs. Smith was just about the first candidate to announce. A combination of circumstances moved her announcement from November to December and then into January 1964, or she probably would at least have been the second to announce.

Last fall, in October, the rumors were leaked that Mrs. Smith was considering becoming a serious candidate for the presidency.

She visited the Air Force Academy early in November and in an interview told this writer that she believed that President John F. Kennedy could be beaten, and that she might be able to do it. She denied she was a candidate, but denied it only because she had promised news hounds in Washington they could have the first break. She planned to make the announcement on Dec. 8.

Then, on Nov. 22, 1963, President Kennedy was slain by a hidden assassin in Dallas, and a month of official mourning was proclaimed.

On Jan. 27, Mrs. Smith announced at a luncheon of the Women's National Press Club that she would be a candidate. She thus became the first woman ever to seriously seek the presidential nomination for a major political party. She also sent people scurrying to reference books to see who she was.

They found out she had been on the national scene for some time, and although it might be considered non-gallant to mention it, they also found out she was the oldest candidate.

Mrs. Smith, 66, was once a school teacher, worked a telephone switchboard, and also worked in the office of a Maine newspaper. She married in 1930 and later her husband was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Her husband died just before he was to run for his third term, and so the widow decided to take his place on the ballot.

She was elected to the house in 1940, and reelected three times before she ran for the Senate in 1948 and was elected, receiving 71 per cent of the vote. She has been reelected to the Senate twice. She prides herself in the attendance record she has set as a senator and the long string of roll call votes she has made.

Earlier, in 1952, her name had been mentioned as a possible vice presidential nominee, but that talk simmered down.

This year, when she announced her candidacy, she was asked if she intended to run for the vice presidency. She denied this and said she was in the race all the way.

She entered the primary elections in New Hampshire, Illinois, and the District of Columbia, and of course was the favorite candidate for Maine.

Illinois was a bright spot for her. In that primary she polled about 25 per cent of the vote cast in a head-on contest with Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, who was reported before the election to be the big favorite. Political commentators called her showing surprising.

Considering the amount of money she said she spent — it was no doubt surprising. She said the campaign in Illinois cost her $85. She made only two appearances.

In round figures, the Illinois vote was divided this way among the GOP hopefuls: Goldwater, 482,000; Mrs. Smith, 197,000.

Write-in votes went to Henry Cabot Lodge, 32,000; Richard M. Nixon, 24,000; Nelson A. Rockefeller, 1,800; William W. Scranton, 1,400; George W. Romney, 396, and Stassen, 50.

Of her showing, Mrs. Smith said: "From an objective standpoint, the vote was most gratifying as it indicated that it is possible to receive significant support from the electorate without spending huge sums of money, despite the fact that one candidate has a monopoly on the state party organization, and without having to abandon official duties in Washington and missing roll call votes."

She added that she believed her showing was a "victory for every woman in the United States," and that the Illinois electorate had "rejected political bigotry against a candidate just because she is a woman."

Mrs. Smith expects to have about 15 delegates when the Arizona Youths Study Climbing At Ft. Carson

A group of 15 youths from Boy's Club of Phoenix, Ariz., are at Ft. Carson's Noncommissioned Officers Academy for training in climbing techniques.

Before the boys left for Colorado they were taught advanced techniques in first aid, mountain and desert survival, communications, knot tying, and mountaineering. When they arrived at Ft. Carson they were prepared for the further intensifying lessons by climbing daily under the supervision of highly qualified Army personnel who give demonstrations each Tuesday and Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in North Cheyenne Canon.

From all reports the boys are gaining unlimited knowledge in the skills of climbing plus all the benefits of fun. The boys will spend several days at Ft. Carson, and are the guests of the Army while living at the Post. The boys earned money through the winter to pay their "fair share" of the costs while on the trip. They will prepare for a trip to the Superstition Mountains.

In the summer of 1963 another group of boys from the Boy's Clubs of Phoenix also visited Ft. Carson where they trained under Army personnel.

Novice mountain climbing is offered to boys 12 years and older while advanced training is offered all boys 14 years of age and older.

Retired Enlisted Group To Hold Picnic Sunday

Retired Enlisted Association Inc. will hold a picnic at the Air Force Academy picnic area No. 2 Sunday, July 12, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. All retired enlisted personnel and families are cordially invited to attend. Those attending should bring two covered dishes. The cost will be $1 per family. Refreshments will be served. For further information contact George Skoncke, president, telephone 635-4221, or Harry F. Glass, publicity chairman, 392-8160.

Local Companies Get Military Packing Bids

Weicker Transfer and Storage Company and Merritt Packing and Crating Service, Inc., Colorado Springs, were low bidders in a Joint Venture for Packing and Crating, Fiscal Year 1965, for Ft. Carson, Ent Air Force Base, and U. S. Air Force Academy.

The local firms bid $120,035.56, estimated. Nine bids were solicited and two bidders responded.

SYMPATHY SESSION—Cheddy Thompson, left, is executive director of the August 5-8 Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo in Colorado Springs. The other harried gentleman is Clyde Fugate, general manager of the August 24-29 State Fair at Pueblo. At a recent breakfast session in Colorado Springs they traded condolences on their hard task in running such super-spectacles. But they forget their troubles, for the moment at least, when Girl of the West Jan Phelps dropped by to wish them well and to remind them of her own busy schedule as reigning royalty at the Colorado Springs rodeo and its preliminary events, including the July 15, Public Rodeo Street Breakfast in the business district. Officer in Court Says Youth Admitted Burglaries

Police Officer Tom Kosley testified in District Court Tuesday during the trial of Oliver B. Franklin that the defendant had admitted to between 17 and 18 further burglaries, apart from the one with which he is currently charged.

Franklin, 18, 930 N. Spruce St. is accused of burglary and larceny. He is alleged to have broken into the home of Carlton R. White, 929 Raymond Place, and taken money and jewelry worth a total of $66.

Just before trial time, Deputy District Attorney Robert Russell amended the value of the articles to read $36 thus making it petty larceny.

Kosley's testimony was heard in the absence of the jury when counsel for the defense, Tom Gresham, was presenting evidence relating to a motion for alleged confession made by the defendant to police officers.

Kosley said he went to Franklin's home with Police Officer Robert L. Murphy and told Franklin that he was suspected of a burglary at Raymond Place. According to the officer, Franklin not only admitted the allegation but confessed to between 17 and 18 more going back to October.

He took a ring off his finger, said the officer, told them it had been stolen from the White residence, and then invited them into his bedroom where he showed them more items taken in the White and other burglaries.

Payne Chapel Will Be Host to Young People's Meet

Payne Chapel A.M.E. Church will host the Young People's Convention, Department of Christian Education of the Rocky Mountain District of the Colorado Conference.

The 3-day meet, which convened at 10 a.m. today with the administration of Holy Communion, will continue through Thursday and Friday. Dr. E. D. Chappelle, district superintendent, is presiding. The annual sermon will be delivered by Rev. L. E. Embrey, minister of Allen Chapel, Cheyenne, Wyo. Delegates from Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona will be in attendance.

Classes will be held out of doors at the community camp, Woodland Park. On Wednesday evening a special welcome program and reception is planned. A talent program will be held Thursday evening. Miss Patricia Scott, who won the district-wide King and Queen Contest, will be the reigning queen. Miss Scott is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland S. Scott, 819 E. Rio Grande St. A skating party will follow Friday sessions will be held at the Garden of the Gods.

District officers are the Rev. Cecil Howard, dean of the department of religious education; Mrs. Minnie Meneares, district superintendent of church schools; Mrs. Clementine Moore, assistant; Mrs. Ira Slack, district president of the conference; district branch, young people's department; Mrs. Thomasina Walker, district president of the A.C.E. League.

Hosts are James White, superintendent of Payne Chapel church school, and Sgt. Raleigh Williams, president of A.C.E. League.

Service Stations In Running Light Safety Program

Beginning today a new running light will go on sale at all Phillips 66 service stations in the Pikes Peak Region. The light, available for installation on automobiles and trucks, is designed for the purpose of aiding in the reduction of accidents.

It consists of a clear lens, a 21-candlelight bulb housed in a chrome finish mounting with an all-purpose bracket which allows it to be mounted on the grille of every vehicle. The light can be installed to go on and off with the vehicle's ignition. In addition it is moisture proof, dust and ozone proof and is equipped with replaceable bulbs. Total cost of the unit, including installation, is $5.95.

The light lens possesses maximum visibility during the daylight hours but becomes invisible in the illumination of the vehicle's headlights during night driving hours.

During daylight hours, the light serves as a constant reminder to oncoming drivers of the responsibilities of safe driving. Its gleam warns of the car's approach not only at dawn and dusk when headlights may be off, but also in broad daylight when the vehicle is in shadow or blending with a particular background.

An article in Time Magazine mentioned the fact that running lights are sparking all over the Midwest at the present time. A Michigan Company, according to the article, is turning the product out at the rate of 10,000 a day and is planning to sell 5,000,000 in the next 18 months.

Phillips 66 officials report that the "lights on" program started in the Phillips Western Division approximately 2 1/2 years ago and because of its effectiveness, was initiated throughout the country on a nation-wide basis.

The Greyhound Bus Company first instituted the running light program on an experimental basis in 1960, and in 1962 made the practice mandatory on company buses.

The bus company officials said: "We are convinced that the use of bus headlights during daylight hours directs attention to our buses, thereby reducing occasions of other motorists and pedestrians making unexpected and accident-producing movements." It was further stated by the officials that the running light program is responsible for a 15 per cent reduction in accidents occurring in the United States and Canada.

His wife, Mrs. Ruth White also testified.

The court adjourned late Tuesday afternoon and reconvened again this morning at 9:30.

Judge G. Russell Miller is on the bench.

One-Day Seminar Set Saturday

The Colorado Springs branch of the Association for Childhood Education will hold a one-day seminar-workshop Saturday in the Terrace Room of the Antlers Hotel.

The special seminar will be conducted by Mrs. Mary Jane LeCrone, Oklahoma City, an educator will know in many states for previous workshops who has been a consultant primary school teacher in Oklahoma during the past two years, according to Mrs. Louella B. Wilson, association president.

The seminar will be devoted to a comprehensive program for directors and teachers of nursery and kindergarten schools. Registration will be from 8-9 a.m. The program will continue until 5 p.m. with a lunch break.

Fee for registration will be $7 per person.

Peak Toll Gate Shows Biggest Tourist Day

Nearly 3,000 persons went through the Pikes Peak toll gate Monday for the biggest tourist day on the peak this year.

The rush of tourists brought the season's total to 70,000, Jack Sullivan, highway superintendent, said. This does not include the approximately 10,000 persons who went through the toll gate for the Pikes Peak Hill Climb July 4.

He said that the pace has picked up considerably since the storms slowed traffic in the last week of May and early June. The heaviest tourist traffic usually occurs during the last half of July and the first three weeks in August.

Rainbow Girls To Hold Annual Go-to-Church

The Pikes Peak Assembly 4, Order of Rainbow for Girls, will have a Go-to-Church Sunday on July 12 at the First Methodist Church, celebrating Founder's Day. The group will meet in front of the Church at 10:30 a.m.

The Miniature Golf and supper, planned for July 11, has been postponed until Aug. 8.

On June 26 the Rainbow Girls exemplified their initiatory work for El Paso Lodge 13 and initiated Claudia Hollenbaugh and Janet Lowney into the group.

All of Rosedom Loves 'Ophelia'
By LARRY LEE CARLIN
ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—To millions of Shakespeare's fans, Ophelia is the tragic love of the Prince of Denmark. But to rose fanciers, "Ophelia" calls forth another meaning.
This latter Ophelia lived centuries after Hamlet's love. She crossed the ocean from England and came to the United States in 1912 through the aid of William Paul, originator of Paul's scarlet climber.
Ophelia is a light orange, salmon, flesh-colored hybrid tea rose, the "grandmother" of the classic rose bud found in the United States.
Although the origin has been lost to the age, some rose experts speculate that Ophelia Love, Grand Slam and the Eiffel Tower owe their heritage to hybridist Antoine Rivoire.
The introduction of Ophelia a half century ago brought flower experts a unique bud that has never been seen. It was tapered toward the ends, long and streamlined. Each bud appeared as though it had been hand-tooled.
This single variety is the ancestor of virtually every popular rose in world commerce today. It's a safe bet that any buds of this type found in home gardens are the offspring of the beautiful but almost forgotten "Ophelia."
There should be many roses flourishing in gardens all over the U.S. this month, roses that first were planted in January. June is National Rose Month and rose shows and conventions are being held across the land.
"Ophelia" and her off-spring will be on display at these shows.
All-America winners—Charlotte Armstrong, Helen Traubel and Sutter's Gold—as well as other roses such as First Lady, Grand Slam and the Eiffel Tower owe their heritage to Italian judges made the selection.
The Armstrong Nurseries here received the Rome Gold Medal recently for their development of the Eiffel Tower. The award was presented for the classic-towered ends, long and streamlined. Each bud appeared as though it had been hand-tooled.
Four mutations of Ophelia arrived on the scene by 1918.

Although the experts disagree over the merits of Ophelia compared with her offspring—Ophelia Supreme, Golden Ophelia, White Ophelia and Madame Butterfly—each has earned a niche in the annals of American rose history.
Next to color, bud form is the greatest appeal in persuading a customer to buy roses, according to selling rose bushes. And Ophelia, though she was only an orphan, is the grand dame of the bud form.
There are those who sadly mourn the scarcity of the Ophelia Rose today. But like Shakespeare's heroine whose memory floats up often in the minds of readers, there is the Ophelia scent that permeates the air wherever rose lovers gather.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

When North heard his partner open the bidding with one heart, his thoughts immediately turned slamward inasmuch as his hand was worth about 20 points in support. He flashed the slam signal by making a jump shift to three diamonds. When South rebid three hearts, North went into Blackwood. All the aces were quickly accounted for and North asked for kings. Had South shown three kings, it was North's intention to bid a grand slam. When South announced two kings by bidding six hearts, North decided discreetly to retire.

West opened the nine of spades. Although a club lead would have placed heavy pressure on the declarer from the outset, West can hardly be criticized for his choice. The king of spades was played from the dummy and trumps were drawn in two pulls.

With 11 top tricks available, South saw two chances open to him for a 12th trick—an even split in diamonds which would establish the dummy's long card in that suit or, if that didn't materialize, it could fall back on the club finesse.

Declarer played the king, ace and another diamond. East showed out on the third round, however, and West exited with his last diamond. South took the club finesse next, but he suffered disappointment once more and scored the deal as a loss.

West's opening lead provided the declarer with a clue to the winning line of play. Inasmuch as the nine of spades is obviously the top of nothing, East is marked with the queen of that suit. This makes it possible to keep West out of the lead while South is working on the diamond suit and provides him with an additional opportunity.

After drawing trump it is suggested that declarer cash two top diamonds followed by the king of spades and then the ten. East will cover with the queen and he is permitted to hold the trick while South discards his last diamond. If East has another diamond to lead, declarer ruffs in his hand. If that suit doesn't divide evenly, he can still fall back on the club finesse.

When East is in with the queen of spades, however, he actually has no safe card of exit. If he leads a spade, it presents South with a ruff and discard. A club return on the other hand is directly into the ace-queen. In either case, declarer obtains his 12th trick.

Ackerman Gives Pep Talk; Rhythmettes Boost Rodeo

Local retailers and members of the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo Association were given a pep talk Tuesday about the forthcoming rodeo and its related activities.

The talk was given by Jasper D. Ackerman at a luncheon held at the Antlers Hotel. At the close of the luncheon the Las Vegas Rhythmettes, a high school precision dancing group, performed.

Ackerman, a long-time official of the rodeo, told the 50 or more persons attending the luncheon that the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo is among the top five in prize money and entrance fees — totaling approximately $25,000 — in the entire United States. He urged the businessmen to boost the rodeo and to do everything possible to push it and make it an even better show this year than ever before.

Harold Heyse, also an official in the show, reminded local residents to make their reservations now for the performances they want to attend. He said the best seats often go to out of town residents because they write in for them a head of time.

Also a speaker was Jim Tuor, chairman of the retail rodeo committee of the Chamber of Commerce, who reported on the activities in which merchants expect to take part.

These include the street break-fast on July 15, exterior and window decorations, employee dress-up contests for the street break-fast and other activities.

The Rhythmettes stopped off in Colorado Springs enroute home to Las Vegas, Nev., following appearances at the New York World's Fair. The group left Las Vegas June 10 by charter bus and remained in New York for 10 days.

Their schedule called for appearances on June 18 and 19 at the Fair, the 19th being Nevada day. They were invited back on June 20 to appear on the fair's closed circuit television and returned again on June 22 to appear at the United States Pavilion for a special performance.

Leaving the fair, the group of 19 girls, all high school students, went to Washington, D.C., where they danced in the rotunda of the Senate Office Building, and did their routine on the flight line of Bolling Air Force Base — in a drenching thunderstorm.

The group is scheduled to arrive in Las Vegas Friday. A public donation of $15,000 paid the expenses for the Rhythmettes to the fair.

Following the appearance in Colorado Springs, the girls were scheduled to tour the Air Force Academy Tuesday, the Rhythmettes were scheduled to meet Gov. John Love in Denver. They were to give him a western hat or shirt in honor of Nevada's Centennial celebration, currently in progress.

Marilyn Johnson, a member of the troupe, extended a personal invitation to Mayor Harry Hoth to attend the celebration.

The Rhythmettes is an all-girl group. Members have a grade-point average of 3.4, based on a 4.0 scale. They receive no credit for taking part in the dancing troupe and spend an average of 14 hours per week learning the dance and marching routines.

The group does not have a captain. No commands are used. Each Rhythmette is an adept choreographer and all presentations are entirely student-created. Their repertoire includes military numbers, contemporary dance production numbers, precision dance routines and novelty productions.

At the Colorado Springs performance, the girls were attired in deep purple costumes set off by white majorette boots, white Cotton Day, Owen Bailey, Ralph gloves and white western hats. Taylor and Jim Dilley.

Girls performing contemporary dance routines wore high-heeled black dancing shoes.

During their national tour they were featured on ABC Wide World of Sports, and recently were featured attractions at the National Cattlemen's Association convention in Las Vegas.

LEASH 'N COLLAR

The July 2 meeting of the Leash 'n Collar 4-H Club was held at the home of Tim Taylor, 2610 Bonfoy St., at 6:30 p.m.

The president and leader announced coming events of interest. They are as follows: Mr. Herman Grange July 11, District 4-H dog trials sponsored by the Hound Dog 4-H Club of Pueblo, July 25. All record books are due in the County Extension office on or before July 27.

It was decided to have a pot luck supper instead of using club funds for a party. The funds will be used to build jumps for further training.

Jane Tilley gave the story of The Dog for her demonstration.

Seven members and their dogs attended the Ordway trials sponsored by the Tail Waggers 4-H Club of Crowley County on June 25. This was a very well organized and enjoyable trial. It was attended by 43 dogs and trainers from 5 counties.

Sub Novice — Barbara Carlson with Taco placed first, Shannon Taylor placed second with Angle and Patty Heyse with Johnny placed sixth. Novice — Donna Heyse placed third with Bluebell and Tim Taylor placed fourth with Soot. Graduate Novice — LaVonne Carlson with Dennis placed second and Teddy Peterson with Sally placed fifth. Barbara Carlson with Taco received Grand Champion Over All and Shannon Taylor with Angle received Reserve Champion Over All.

The weekly training will be held at Boulder Park today at 10:30 a.m.

The next monthly meeting will be held at the home of Shannon Taylor on Aug. 6.

Refreshments were served.

PINE TREE

The June meeting of the Pine Tree 4-H Club was called to order by Judy Cooper, president.

Shannon Taylor gave a report on the play and talent contest at the 4-H Conference in Fort Collins, June 9-11. He also reported on the square dance contest and the county council meeting.

Jane Winter reported on the General Assembly at which time candidates running for state offices were introduced.

Tom Chilcott gave a report on the animal husbandry seminar he attended while at the conference.

Talks were given by Tom Chilcott, turkeys; Dewey Winter, craftsmanship; Pat Carlson, clothing; Jane Winter, home beautification; Roseray Chilcott, clothing.

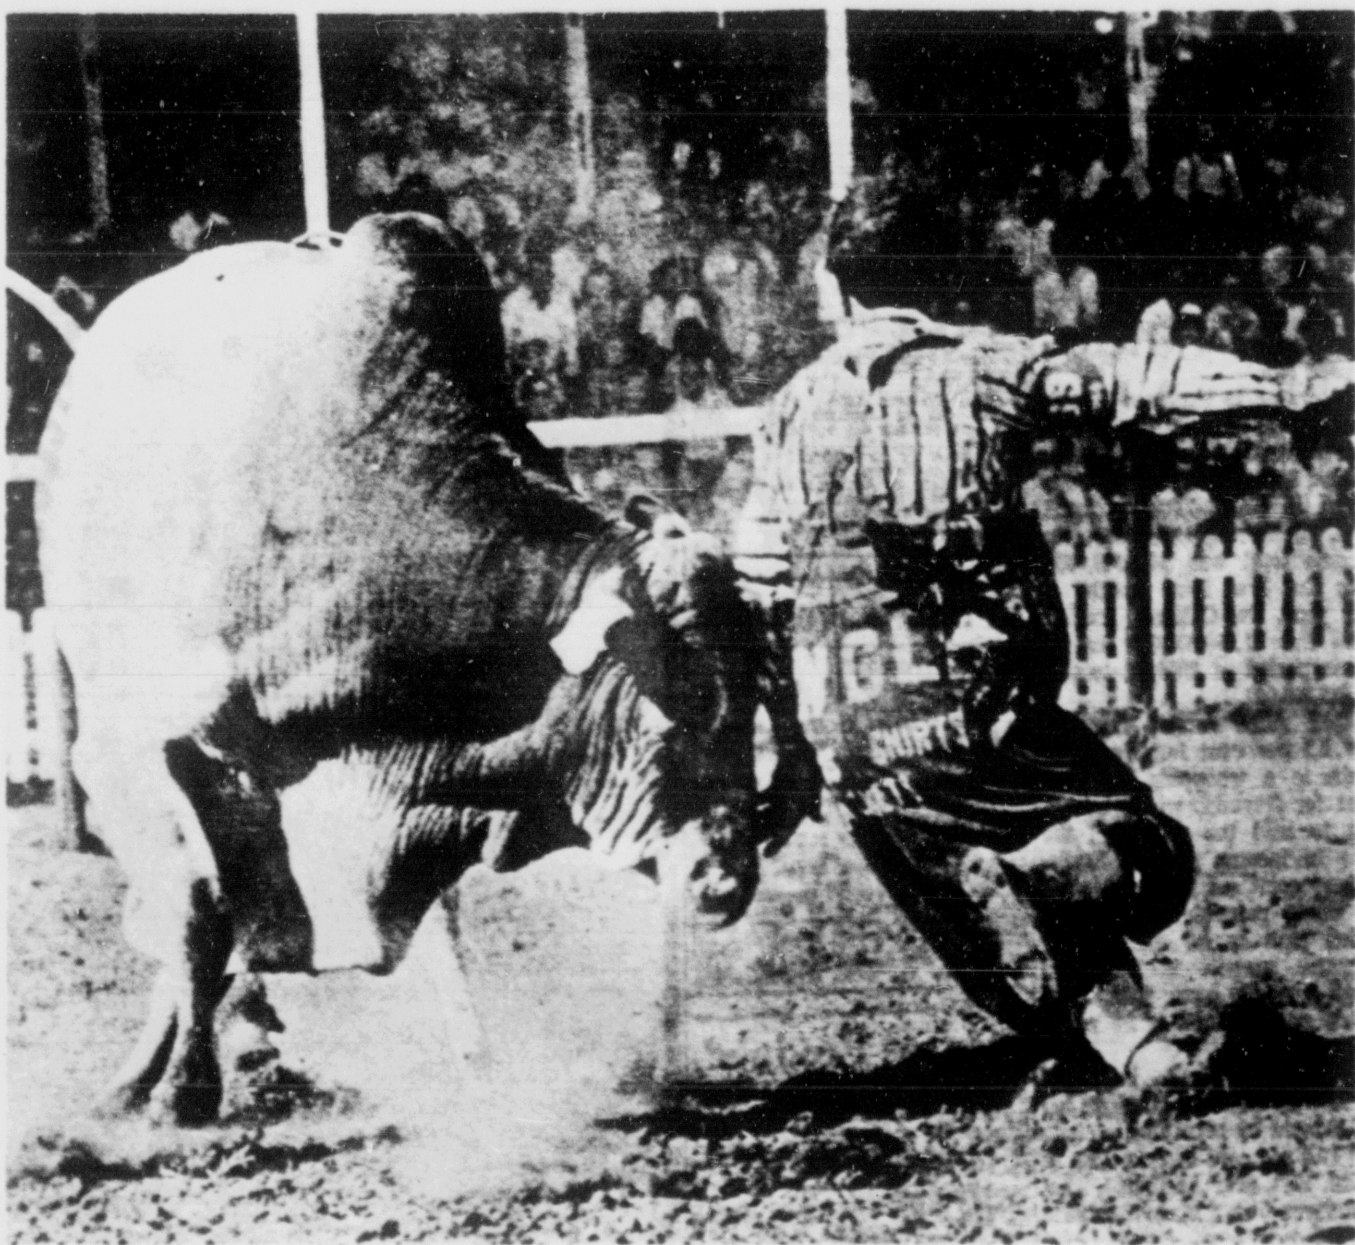

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Cooper.

Fremont-Custer Council Holds Monthly Meeting

The Four-Mile 4-H Club held its annual livestock tour and picnic recently. Fifty 4-H members and families attended the picnic held at the Kinney Hall residence and the tour which followed.

The places toured were those of Kinney Hall, Dick Chess, in deep purple costumes set off by white majorette boots, white Cotton Day, Owen Bailey, Ralph gloves and white western hats. Taylor and Jim Dilley.

DANGEROUS JOB—Rodeo clown Buck LeGrand gets a twist lesson from a 1,500-pound Brahma bull after the animal dumped its rider. The rodeo clown is actually a necessary performer during the bull riding event, for by his antics he is able to keep the often vicious Brahma bulls busy while their riders reach safety. LeGrand will be diverting the Brahmans' attention at the Colorado State Fair rodeo in Pueblo, Aug. 27-28.

4-H PROJECTS—More than 800 members of 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America will share in the $85,000 paid in premiums at the Colorado State Fair in Pueblo Aug. 24-29. Entries like these are expected to take the eye of young and old alike during the annual event.

1964 State Fair Week Designated by Gov. Love

Gov. John A. Love has designated Aug. 24-29 as Colorado State Fair Week and urged all Coloradans as well as Colorado visitors to attend the 92nd annual exposition of the region's agricultural and industrial wealth.

In extending his official invitation in the recently published state fair premium list, the governor said, "We are proud of the Colorado State Fair and its contribution to our pleasure, our agriculture, industry, and to our progress and development."

The governor added, "We are confident that you will find the exhibitions of skill and industry outstanding and that you will enjoy meeting the members of the Colorado 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers of America."

Gov. Love, his wife, and daughter Becky are scheduled to tour the many activities on the eighty-acre fairgrounds on Governor's Day, Aug. 28.

Fair manager, Clyde P. Fugate, said the 1964 premium list includes practically everything from "bedspreads to bulls" and offers record premiums totaling $85,000. Fugate predicted increased entries in the beef, dairy cattle and sheep divisions following completion in

Fremont County 4-H Conducts Stock Tour

The Fremont-Custer county 4-H council held its monthly meeting Tuesday, 8 p.m. in the 4-H building, Canon City.

The program included reports from the State 4-H Conference delegates, Mrs. Fred Smith, Kathy Smith, and John Globokar.

Items discussed included the 4-H Fair Camp Tobin, the State Fair, the state jack - pot gymkhana, rodeo tickets sales, the county 4-H picnic, and the home economics leader's meeting.

4-H Leaders' Meeting Scheduled Thursday

A 4-H Club leaders' meeting is scheduled Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Nob Hill Community Hall, 731 Iowa St.

El Paso County leaders will discuss forthcoming events at the meeting.

Copies of the 1964 premium list, entry forms and a program brochure may be obtained free of charge by writing to the Colorado State Fair, State Fairgrounds, Pueblo, Colo.

Extension Marks 50th Anniversary

The Cooperative Extension Service of the nation's 50 land-grant universities and colleges this year celebrates its 50th anniversary. It is a branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and is supported by tax funds.

There are around 11,000 county extension agents. These specially trained men and women work with 4-H Club members in every state and county. There are 94,000 clubs with a membership of two and a quarter million boys and girls from rural, suburban and city families. More than 425,000 volunteer leaders supervise club work locally.

Fifty years ago 4-H had barely gotten off the ground. Participation was spotty. Sponsored programs were still a dream of the founders.

Agricultural extension agents were showing young farmers how to grow better corn for higher yields. They encouraged the youngsters to raise a pig to eat the corn. The fattened hog eventually reached the Sunday dinner table.

Girls raised pigs, too, but for the most part they grew and canned tomatoes. The end product also was added to the family food supply.

The whole idea behind this unique service was to teach the children so they could prove to their parents that there were "better ways" to get the job done. So was born the 4-H slogan: "Make the Best Better."

And right behind the Extension Service came the business men to offer encouragement and financial support to the 4-H Club efforts. They offered funds for educational material, awards, recognition events, and when called upon, provided technical assistance.

As the number of head-hearts, hands and health youth increased, so did the support of private enterprise. As the times and needs changed, industry, extension and the National 4-H Service Committee cooperated in developing new programs.

Among the 4-H backers for more than 20 consecutive years are: Armour and Company; Santa Fe Railway; Burlington Railroad; Milwaukee Railroad; Chicago & North Western Railway; Coats & Clark; Conrad Hilton Hotel; Cudahy Packing Company; Firestone; Illinois Central Railroad; International Harvester; Kerr Glass Manufacturing; Livestock Conservation Incorporated; Montgomery Ward; Sears-Roebuck Foundation; Westinghouse Educational Foundation; Wilson & Co.; Standard Oil (Ohio); General Motors; American Oil Foundation.

Others include: Eastman Kodak; John Deere; General Foods; Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation; Ralston Purina. Today 4-Hers can learn about things such as electronics; scientific raising and care of farm animals; proper operation and maintenance of farm machinery, including the family auto; adequate measures to insure good health and safety; horticulture; entomology; photography; nutrition; buying or making apparel.

There are more than 35 different project areas available to boys and girls. Approximately 55 business firms and foundations sponsor these programs or provide educational assistance.

Carol Stancil Junior Member Of Cattle Group

Carol Stancil of Colorado Springs has been named a junior member of the American Shorthorn Association, nationwide registry for Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn beef cattle. Acceptance of full status membership was announced in Omaha, Neb., by C. D. Swaffar, executive secretary.

Miss Stancil's membership carries member-breeder registration privileges and names her a cooperative participant in nationwide promotion of the breed.

Universally known as the "Great Improvers," Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn (polled meaning naturally hornless) bulls are used extensively for crossing on other beef breeds. They are sought and used to step-up weaning weights of feeder calves; improve size and milking-ability of replacement males; and to stimulate rate-of-gain.

Shorthorns led the purebred movement in America and for many generations were commonly called "Durhams."

International Day Observance Set Thursday

The El Paso County Extension Homemakers Clubs will participate in an International Day at the Black Forest Community Hall Thursday beginning at 11 A.M.

The program will consist of food, exhibits, and entertainment representing Sweden, Italy and Hawaii.

Purposes of the event are to stress the importance of understanding the United Nations and its specialized agencies; to strengthen the International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) program; to provide hospitality and encourage friendship and understanding toward foreign visitors and peoples of all countries.

Members are asked to bring their own table service. Questions and detail information may be directed to Mrs. David W. Roberts, 1214 Cumberland, Colorado Springs.

Williams Places First in All Under 12 Events

Lee Williams placed first in all age 12 and under events June 30 at the Crystal Hills Saddle Club's Tuesday night gymkhana.

In the 8 and under age group, Gary Leitner and Kathy Schock shared the first place spotlight, with each taking two apiece. Sandy Weidner and Mike Pickett did likewise in the junior group and Duke Williams and Jim Ford split the first places in the senior division.

In the walk-and-lead race, which was open to all ages, Mike Pickett placed first. The gymkhana is held each Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Sheriff's Posse Grounds on Crystal Park Road. There is no admission charge for spectators. High point man receives a trophy or belt buckle.

Results, with winners in the first four places in each age division listed in order, are as follows:

BARREL RACE — Age 8 and under: Gary Leitner, Debbie Ford, Mary Lou Stouffer, Kathy Schock. Age 12 and under: Lee Williams, Terri Velasquez, Debbie Steddom, Pam Ford. Juniors: Sandy Weidner, Tom Miller, Mike Pickett, Cathy Dire. Seniors: Mike Williams, Barbara Bartell, Jim Ford, Ron Geary.

Nine Fremont County 4-Hers Receive Chicks

Nine Fremont County 4-H members received 349 baby chick pheasants from the State Game Bird Farm in Rocky Ford, Wednesday. The chicks were provided by the Game, Fish and Parks Department for 4-H boys and girls enrolled in the Natural Resource Field of Wildlife Conservation Units 3 and 4.

The 4-H members receiving the chicks were Kevin Colvin, David Dickens, Garland and Rebecca Cooper, John and Mardene Lutenberg, Dennis and Nickie Del Duca, all of Canon City, and Steve Shade of Penrose.

The 4-Hers will raise the chicks up to twelve weeks of age, at which time they will be banded by Wildlife Conservation Officer Preston Steele and then released.

The Fremont County Game and Fish Protective Association has helped with this project by buying feed for the birds. The association sponsors a trophy for the best pheasant record book and a trophy for the best gun safety exhibit.

Utah's Frost Tops in Money Over Weekend

Utah cowboy, Clyde Frost, was top money winner at July Fourth rodeos, the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association said today.

Frost, 29, collected $2,281 during competition at Camdenion, Mo. The annual J-Bar-H rodeo, after logging 112 entries in five events, cut up $21,407 among 46 winning contestants, largest payoff of 41 R.C.A. contests held over the national holiday.

Frost hit the payline in bareback bronc riding for $970, and then bested a field of 13 other saddle bronc riders, including the current world champion, Guy Weeks, for another $950. The Utah cowboy, from Lapoint, also snared $361 steer wrestling.

C. R. Boucher, Burkburnett, Tex., hiked his bid for 1964's steer wrestling crown to $14,703, with a win at Springdale, Ark., worth $568, and a second place finish in Camdenion competition for another $610.

At a pair of major South Dakota rodeos, in Mobridge and Belle Fourche, Jim Tescher, Medora, N. D., won saddle bronc riding events and pocketed $1,047. He stepped to the front in the event's national charts with an overall $9,191.

The Dakota rodeos produced another two-time winner, in calf roping, as New Mexico's speed burner, Olin Young, of Albuquerque, spent 57.5 seconds on four calves to collect a total $1,188 for less than a minute's work. Young, 27, who already was leading the season's national roping standings, boosted his winnings to $12,387.

At St. Paul, Ore., where $11,530 was at stake in five events, 250-pound Harry Charters, Jr., Melba, Ida., nailed all-around cowboy laurels by collecting $797 in roping events.

Charters, a towering six foot, six, split calf roping honors with Bob Ragsdale, Chowchilla, Calif., for $644 of his total.

Sellout crowds saw Bob Wiley, 27, Porterville, Calif., notch a blistering 9.8 seconds in the second go-round to set a new roping record in the St. Paul arena.

No serious injury to its cowboy members, either in the arena or on the highways, was reported by the RCA during the holiday week end.

Bluegrass Lawns Grow Slower In Summertime

FORT COLLINS — If the lush green growth of your lawn slows down during hot weather, don't blame it on lack of water, explains Floyd Brown, Colorado State University extension irrigation specialist.

Bluegrass lawns normally grow slower when the weather is hot even though ample soil moisture is present, the specialist continues.

One to one and one-half inches of water applied every five to seven days should be sufficient for most summer lawns. Turf or sandy soil might require more frequent applications, but smaller amounts of water at each irrigation. The amount of water applied can easily be measured by placing several coffee cans over the area to be sprinkled.

After the lawn is watered, the soil should be moist to a depth of 15 to 18 inches, Brown states. Use a small pointed rod or a long screwdriver to find out how deep the water has penetrated.

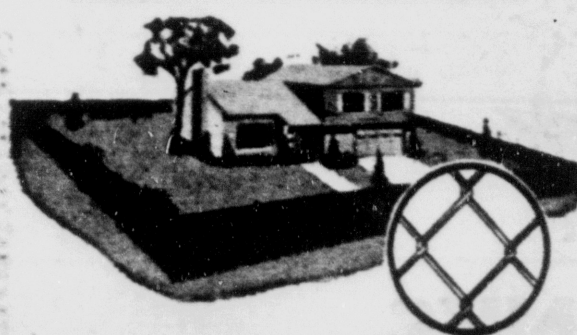

Daily light 5 or 10 minute "sprinklings" are often a waste of water since most of the moisture will evaporate before it penetrates thoroughly. These light irrigations also encourage shallow root growth making the grass even less drought resistant.

CSU turf specialists recommend use of large diameter hoses and sprinklers that develop low back pressure for more efficient lawn irrigation. A hose with an inside diameter of three-quarters inch and a low pressure sprinkler will deliver 31 gallons of water each minute or one inch of water over 5,000 square feet of turf in two hours.

On the other hand, it requires 11.4 hours to deliver the same amount of water with the same sprinkler when a three-eighths hose is used. Hose size need not be larger than the pipes delivering the water to the hose, however.

Thorough watering of portions of the lawn at regular intervals is much more effective than trying to cover the entire lawn in one day, according to the irrigation specialist. Raising the mow so that it leaves the grass one and one-half to two inches tall will also slow moisture evaporation and save water, Brown explains.

MEADOW IRRIGATOR — Irrigation of pastures and meadows may become easier with a machine demonstrated at a mountain meadow field day held near Gunnison June 15. Powered by a small gasoline engine, the machine moves down an irrigation ditch guided by a forward runner in the ditch. The canvas dam attached to the rear of the wheels does the work, flooding the meadow as the unit moves along. Forward movement rate is varied by changing a chain and sprocket drive. Speed ranges from 13 to about 17 feet per hour. Axes are adjusted to fit varying ditch widths. The experimental machine is being tested in the Rocky Mountain area. (Colorado State University Photo) loosa gelding senior competition. He competed against a field of 39 animals. Colorado took two of the three Grand Champion crowns at the show with Patches Jr. and Shawn Tonga, owned by Ben Johnson of Grand Junction, winning the stallion title.

Survey Shows Few Grasshoppers Out This Year

A survey of rangelands in Eastern Colorado shows grasshopper populations thus far this summer are extremely low.

According to the latest weekly Cooperative Economic Insect Report, issued by the entomology section at Colorado State University's Agricultural Experiment Station, grasshopper nymphal stages are averaging less than one per square yard.

Somewhat higher populations have been observed in Boulder and Larimer counties, where entomologists have counted as many as 8 to 15 per square yard.

The report also indicates that the warm weather is causing fast build-up of mites in corn fields and on ornamental plants.

Potato aphid and psyllid populations are widespread in Weld county, potato fields, and heavy populations are being found on wild morning glory and matrimony vine plants.

Moderate to heavy populations of alfalfa weevil and pea aphid are holding back alfalfa growth in some Weld county fields, but parasites are increasing which may reduce the insect numbers.

The Mexican bean beetle is being found in Weld county bean fields, with leaf damage noted in some cases.

In Western Colorado, populations of sugar beet leafhopper are increasing. The report shows that controls are being applied where the leafhoppers are the heaviest.

MESH HALTS EROSION

Agrop of British scientists are spraying desert sands with mineral oil and latex rubber to grow crops, reports Ruth Appellthun, Extension Home Agent. The spray lays a fine mesh network of rubber film over the sandy soil to halt erosion and stabilize soil. Tests have shown that peas, lettuce and onions can grow satisfactorily through the rubber film. Miss Appellthun says.

Two Tons Undelivered Mail Are Discovered

WATER MILL, N.Y. (AP)—After delivering mail for 30 years, postman Lorin F. Shipper apparently decided to deliver only the important looking letters and let the rest pile up. Authorities found two tons of unopened mail, mostly periodicals, circulars and advertising matter, in Shipper's garage and in some ancient automobiles parked on his lawn. The mail was postmarked 1953 and 1954. About 10 per cent was first-class mail.

Roy Peterson, Southampton postmaster, said there were no complaints of missed mail.

"The carrier must have delivered all the mail he thought important and just put the rest away," Peterson said Tuesday. Shipper, 75, who retired in 1956, told postal officials he couldn't recall how the leftover mail got there.

Peterson said that since the five-year statute of limitations had expired there would be no prosecution.

Edward Kennedy Will Be Taken to Boston

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is to be transferred to New England Baptist Hospital in Boston on Thursday.

The Democratic senator from Massachusetts is recuperating from a broken back suffered in the crash of a private plane on June 19.

In making the transfer announcement, Dr. Thomas F. Corriden gave no estimate of the time Kennedy, 32, would be hospitalized. He said the senator would be moved in a Westover Air Force Base ambulance.

HERB WINDOW BOX

A kitchen window box of herb plants in small individual clay pots is a tasty treasure for gourmet families or everyday cooks who like to have fresh seasoning on hand. Most herbs prefer full sun and are hardy enough to withstand hot summer months.

Ask for Help!

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (She is a very good baker.) is 15. She ran off with her boy friend, who is 18. They called me the next day from another state and said they were married. They stayed away ten days and then wired me for money to get their car fixed so they could come home. I sent them the money and they came home. When I questioned them about their marriage their answers were very vague, so I became suspicious and asked to see their marriage certificate. They said they lost it. I told them they were not going to share a bedroom in my home unless they could prove they were man and wife. The boy's mother let them stay at her house, and said she trusted them. The boy quit school, can not hold a job and he talked my daughter into quitting school to run off with him. I don't think they ever got married, and it wouldn't surprise me if my daughter were in a family way. We are good Christian people, and this is a disgrace. What should I do? —SORROWING MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: Will you please explain the difference between FORMAL, INFORMAL and SEMI-FORMAL attire for men who want to be properly dressed? Everyone I ask has a different opinion. Thank you. —IN DOUBT

DEAR ABBY: According to Mr. B. Wien, President of the National Association of Retail Clothing Manufacturers, FORMAL is the ultimate in formal attire. It calls for white tie and tails, and is strictly for after 6 P.M. INFORMAL calls for a suit. Preferably dark. (No tweed or sports coat.) SEMI-FORMAL requires a tuxedo—sometimes called "black tie." Dark tuxedos are proper for all-year-round wear, but from Decoration Day until Labor Day, white or pastel tuxedo jackets are also proper.

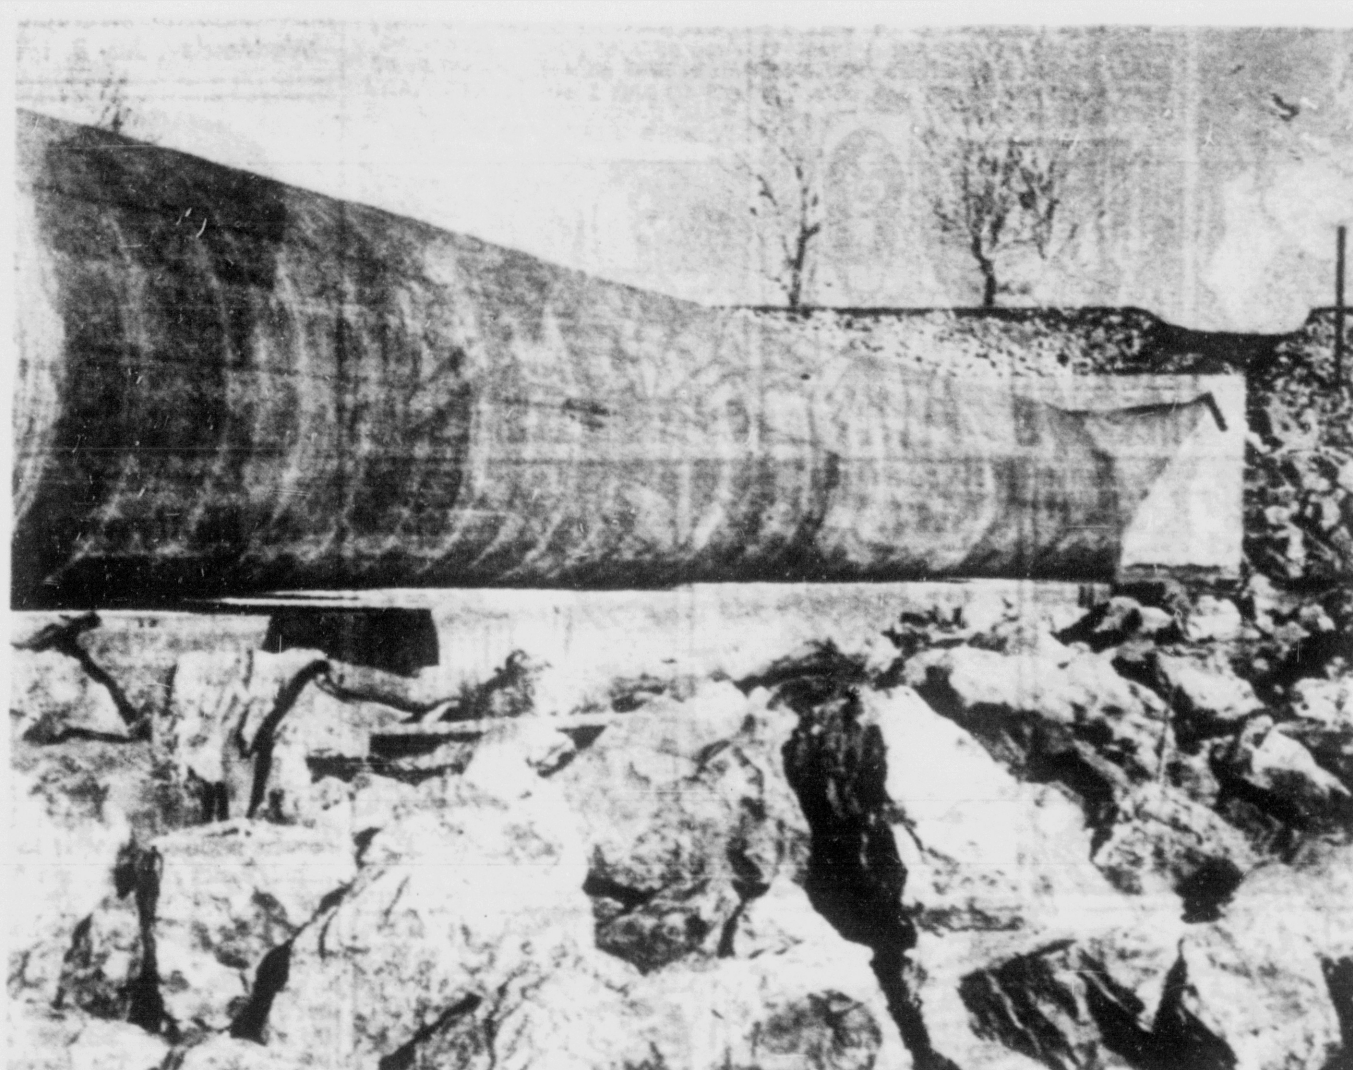

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine sold her car last year, and now when she needs transportation, she never calls a cab, she calls me. I know for a fact that I have saved her over $100 in cab fares. She has never once offered to pay for gasoline or parking. She just hops out of the car and says, "Thanks a lot."

Last week I got news that some house guests were coming. I was pressed for time so I asked this friend of mine if she would bake me a cake.

Accept the fact that gratitude sometimes has a short memory. It's the same old story, "the dentist gets paid last because the tooth has stopped aching."

NEW TYPE DAM—Rice farmers in Texas have found that the installation of this new 227-foot tubular collapsible air and water-filled dam has cut the cost of irrigating their fields by reducing the pumping head and increasing the efficiency of the pumps. The dam also raised the water level seven feet higher than the six-foot level achieved by a flashboard construction. Before setting the dam, a 35-foot-wide, two-foot-thick concrete base, with abutments on each bank, was constructed. The ends of the dam were then securely bolted to the abutments. The bottom of the dam rests on the concrete pad.

REPLACED BY FABRIC DAM — The old dam replaced by the nylon, neoprene and synthetic rubber dam frequently washed out during floods. The result was a conglomeration of debris and damaged iron piling built up over the years.

BAT A SERIOUS PROBLEM

Bats don't need radar. They're equipped with their own marvelous sound-navigation system that permits them to cruise safely around an unlighted room without hitting obstructions. They can be a serious pest, however, warns the National Pest Control Association, and a secondary health hazard if permitted to develop colonies in or around the home. Bats can transmit the extremely painful and often fatal rabies virus.

SAY THANKS WITH PLANTS

Weekend visitors can leave their hosts with a lasting thank you by bringing along a favorite summer house plant. Geraniums and begonias come in many colors and shades, are easy to grow and care for, and make welcome addition to patios, porches and windows. Inclusion of a matching clay saucer for the red clay pot will make the plant easier to care for, and your gift that much more appreciated.

Dam Made of Nylon May Cut Water Storage Costs

Three hundred miles of rice field canals along the Lower Colorado River near Baytown, Tex., are fed from a reservoir which is formed by a 227-foot tubular collapsible air and water-filled dam.

Sound like something from futuristic fiction? It isn't. Constructed of nylon coated with neoprene and synthetic rubbers, the "Fibridam" costs less installed than a conventional variable control structure and is expected to last for years without replacement or major maintenance.

Even more amazing, all preparatory work for the dam, including construction of the concrete base, required less than four months. The inflatable dam itself was erected in two weeks.

And, on top of everything else, the installation has brought about an additional cost saving by raising the water level seven feet higher than the six-foot level achieved by a flashboard construction.

The first "Fibridam" manufactured by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., was installed on the Los Angeles River in 1959. Others are now in operation in San Jose, Calif.; East Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miami, Fla.; Holyoke, Mass.; and Honolulu.

This type dam is designed to deflate gradually through a siphoning arrangement as the weight of river water flowing over it increases during flood stages. After the flood waters subside, it is filled again—this latest one by means of automatic pumps from a nearby well and a low pressure compressor.

The dam's tough abrasion-resistant coating of neoprene and synthetic rubbers is unaffected by debris and sand which pass over it during floods or under normal conditions.

These materials, widely used for years in a number of industries, will last for years in all types of weather without deteriorating. They also offer a useful combination of properties including excellent resistance to oils, ozone and most chemicals.

When in use the dam functions almost like a tire running at moderate speed on a rough road. Because of its lower inflation pressure, however, it is more resilient, and though only one-eighth inch thick, its puncture resistance rating is more

Western Rating Center Slated At Steamboat

The first Western Rating Center, empowered to give national ratings Nos. 1, 2 or 3 or junior ratings to riders who qualify will be held at the Perry - Mansfield Camps, Steamboat Springs, July 26-29.

The Center, which has evolved from Western clinics at various camps, draws its authority to bestow national ratings from the National Council of the Division for Girls and Women's Sports (DGWS) of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a department of the National Education Association.

The privilege of giving ratings in Western riding was granted at the council's meeting in May in Washington, D.C., on an experimental basis, a routine approach.

Until this year stock saddle riding was sponsored by the DGWS only in Western riding clinics, with no ratings given.

The winning of a DGWS national rating is an asset to the instructor of horsemanship in school or camp, or to the rider operating his own stable, also to the rider wishing authoritative evaluation of his skill and knowledge.

The group at Perry - Mansfield will have four days of intensive work, both mounted and by way of lectures, study of text and a written examination. Applicants should write to Portia Mansfield, Perry - Mansfield Camps, Steamboat Springs, Colo.

The Western Rating Center at Perry - Mansfield and future centers to be established in other localities are administered by the Western Sub-Committee of the National Riding Committee of DGWS.

FEDERAL INSPECTION

Only that beef which moves across state lines is required by law to be federally inspected. This, however, totals 80 per cent of all commercially slaughtered beef animals, according to Ruth Appellthun, El Paso County Home Agent.

Meat Production In Colorado Up During May

In line with the national trend, red meat production in Colorado during the month of May increased over April and over May of 1963.

Production in May was 151,371,000 pounds in Colorado, 4 per cent higher than the 145,908,000 pounds produced during May 1963. This was also above April's 83,696,000 pounds slaughtered.

Nationally, commercial production of red meat during May was 2,548 million pounds, up 1 per cent from a year earlier, but 6 per cent less than the previous month. Commercial meat production excludes farm slaughter.

The slaughter of 121,000 head of cattle in Colorado weighing 127,776,000 pounds was 7 per cent higher than the 112,000 head slaughtered during May of 1963. During April 108,000 head weighed 115,452,000 pounds. The average liveweight in May was 1,056 pounds per head, 12 pounds less than for May 1963 and 13 pounds less than in April.

According to the Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, which furnishes these figures, the May calf slaughter totaled 400 head and averaged 450 pounds liveweight for a total kill of 180,000 pounds. A year earlier only 300 head yielded 142,000 pounds and during April of this year 182,000 pounds total liveweight was obtained from 400 head.

The slaughter of pork, sheep and lamb was down during the month of May, in keeping with the national trend.

The May pork kill totaled 12,305,000 pounds, 1,501,000 pounds less than the April kill and 1,261,000 pounds or 9 per cent less than a year ago. A total 53,500 head were slaughtered, compared to 59,500 in 1963. Average liveweight this May was 230 pounds, two pounds more than a year earlier and four pounds less than a month earlier.

The total kill of sheep and lambs yielded 11,110,000 pounds of liveweight compared with 12,384,000 pounds a year earlier and 17,745,000 pounds during April 1964. Total head butchered numbered 110,000, 11,000 less than a year earlier and 59,000 less than a month ago. Average weight per head was 101 pounds, compared with 104 pounds during May 1963 and 105 pounds during April 1964.

LINKLETTERS SPEND A DAY TAKING IN WORLD'S FAIR

HOLLYWOOD — The Art Linkletters and two of their children had a day at the World's fair and came home raving about its beauty and the Spanish pavilion and their food. Family's still recuperating, but Art was up and at 'em after a night's sleep. "I may blow up some day but I won't run down," he agrees that the fair's number one attraction is the G.M. exhibit, followed by Pepsi's for kids. The number three spot is a tossup between G.E. and I.B.M. Art called "To Broadway With Love" one of the greatest musicals he's ever seen, but says it's in the wrong place. By the time you get to the entertainment section, your feet hurt, you've seen the fireworks and exhibits, and are ready for home. He photographed the real Watusi and Baboon dancers and much of the fair for his show Linkletters will emcee the $500-a-plate dinner for Republicans running for congress at San Francisco's Civic auditorium July 13.

Loneliest girl in the world is Judy Garland. I don't think her traveling companion, Mark Herron, is the answer to all her problems. In fact, I think he'll complicate matters considerably in her custody fight with Sid Luft. Judy's loaded with talent, has three wonderful children, and is a lost soul.

Bob Hope's greeting to the fellows on the aircraft carrier, Coral Sea, as it came into Seattle: "Welcome, you floating crap game." Said Hope, "It was a great sight with all those guys standing at attention along the rail. They told me not to leave until I talked to the captain. I couldn't figure why until I saw him. He was Capt. Pierre Charbonnet, in charge of the U.S.S. Forrestal when we boarded her in Naples several Christmases ago, remember?" If conditions are right, Bob will be in Viet Nam this Christmas.

Got an invitation to Dolores Hart's investiture as a nun. She's a dedicated girl, was a fine actress with a divine sense of humor. I remember the story she told me about her grandmother. She had her teeth out and was then informed it would be impossible to fit her with false ones — something about the formation of her jaw. So Grandma took herself to a dental college and learned how to make her own. That's my kind of woman. Wish we had more like her.

The second annual Fashion Show sponsored by the Junior Guild of the Church in The Wildwood will be held Thursday, July 9, at 2 p.m. at the Community Building. Fashions this year will again be furnished through the courtesy of the Swiss Miss, which is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dugdale of Cascade. Featured will be fashions from Switzerland, with some German imports. Fashions for both adults and children will be modeled by the following: Joyce Krahenbuhl, Doris Pierson, Irene Mallett, Bev Page, Wini Pyle, Jane Ellis, Jan Pettit, Sharon Ernst, Carolyn Houchin, Hermine Bucher, Paige Penman, Kimberly Page and Monte Crabbs. Vocalist for the show will be Claire Carvill. Serving at the tea table will be Jonell Ewart, and doing the commentary for the show will be Bette Belas. An art show will be held in conjunction with the fashion show, with Wini Pyle as chairman. Plans are to exhibit art work and ceramics by various artists in the area.

July 11 will begin the first of the Saturday night square dances to be held this summer in the Community Building. Dancing will begin at 8 p.m. and continue until 10:30 under the direction of Norman Chichester. Admission is free, through the courtesy of the town of Green Mountain Falls and the Community Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Green Mountain Falls - Chipeta Park Volunteer Fire Dept. was held July 2, with 23 members present. Chefs for the evening dinner were George Brown and John Haynes, who served turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, hot rolls and coffee. The Green Mountain Falls - Chipeta Park Volunteer Fire Department has set August 15 as the date for their annual Bar-B-Que. Menu will consist of barbequed beef, baked beans, cole slaw, potato chips and beverage. Tickets are now on sale from any of the volunteer fireman.

Next Sunday, July 12, will be open house again at Brookhurst Boys Ranch on Highway 24, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The Wednesday afternoon card party at Fellowship Hall had six tables of bridge and canasta last week. Sponsored by the Women's Fellowship, these card parties are held each Wednesday at 1 p.m., with a door prize, bridge prize and canasta prize given each week. Last week's door prize was won by Ethel Rewart, the bridge prize was won by Lucille Hutton and the canasta prize by Alice Palmer. Hostesses on July 8 will be Dorothy Jones and sister, Helen Newkirk.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Pickett for three weeks were Mrs. Frank Pickett and children Bill, Pat and Donna, all of Wolf Creek, Ore. Mrs. Frank Pickett and family are now spending a few days in Colorado Springs visiting her mother, Mrs. Georgia Gegenheimer, and sister Mrs. Guy Reynolds before returning to Oregon.

Returning last Tuesday from a two weeks trip through Kentucky, Virginia, Washington D.C. and New York and the World's Fair, were Mrs. Lynn Gaylor and daughter Jody. Accompanying them on the trip were Mrs. Catherine Biddle of Colorado Springs, mother of Mrs. Gay, Linda Carey, a friend of Jody's from San Lorenzo, Calif., who is presently working at Outlook Lodge, and Steve Tanberg from Denver. Traveling in ideal weather conditions, they visited friends and relatives in Chicago, Lakewood, Ohio, and Amsterdam, New York, also including in their itinerary a trip to Mt. Vernon, the White House and the Lincoln Memorial.

Through the efforts of the Ladies Guild, the Church in the Wildwood is in the process of being painted.

The Annual Fellowship Fair, sponsored by the Women's Fellowship of the Church in the Wildwood will be held July 15 in the Community Building. Coffee and donuts will be served at 10 a.m. There will be a food booth, plus displays of fancy work and Christmas gifts. Hot dogs and sloppy joes will be served from 11 a.m. till 1 p.m. From 5 to 7 p.m. the ladies will serve a delicious, home cooked ham dinner, at $1.25 per plate. Children's plates 75 cents. Everyone is welcome.

Boulder Youth Falls 40 Feet in Mountains

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Bob Rossman, 17, said he felt "a little sore but mighty lucky" today. He slid down a rock chute on the face of a mountain Sunday and fell another 40 feet, crashing against a tree on the side of the mountain west of Boulder. Three hours later, members of the Rocky Mountain Rescue Group plucked him to safety with a stretcher. Rossman suffered only cuts and bruises.

AWARDS CONTRACT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Naval Bureau of Weapons has awarded a $3,816,000 contract to the Lockheed Aircraft Service Company of Honolulu to provide maintenance and upkeep on C-121 aircraft stationed in the islands. It was announced Monday.

CONVENTIONS AND CRISES/ The Republicans

The World War had been over for a year and a half; a Republican Congress was still debating the Versailles Treaty; President Wilson, after a futile appeal to the people to accept the League of Nations, was dying; the Prohibitionists had finally made the country dry; women had finally won the vote.

The nation had retreated back into its isolationist shell. The people were satisfied. Election year 1920 was going to be a Republican year and the Republicans knew it. The fact that they had no candidates of outstanding caliber didn't bother them as they assembled in Chicago in June.

Out of nearly a score of mentioned candidates, the most prominent were Gen. Leonard Wood, Gov. Frank Lowden of Illinois, Sen. Hiram Johnson of California, Food Administrator Herbert Hoover, Massachusetts Gov. Calvin Coolidge and Warren Gamaliel Harding.

ing, senator and newspaper publisher from Ohio.

Shrewd Harry Daugherty, Harding's campaign manager, prophesied: "The convention will be deadlocked and after the other candidates have gone their limit, some 12 or 15 men, worn-out and bleary-eyed from lack of sleep, will sit down about two o'clock in the morning in a smoke-filled room in some hotel and decide the nomination. When that time comes, Harding will be selected."

That is exactly what happened, and the phrase, "smoke-filled room," entered the vocabulary.

After eight ballots, neither of the deadlocked front-runners, Lowden and Wood, could be persuaded to step down. The convention adjourned and into a hotel room went the Republican leaders. For two hours, amid the burning cigars, they talked to Harding. When

Harding had taken a chance and won, for he had had to decide between trying for the presidential nomination or refiling for the Senate. (These were the days before presidential hopefuls covered their bets by running for Congress at the same time.)

Harding campaigned from his front porch in Marion, Ohio, on the slogan, "Back to normalcy." His vice presidential mate, Calvin Coolidge, chopped wood at Plymouth Notch, Vt. In November, they won handily—16 million to 9 million—over their Democratic opponents, James M. Cox and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the Navy.

The people had chosen "normalcy," which, apparently, meant the least government by the least capable.

Advance Guards Set Up Posts In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It will be no surprise to the Goldwater and Scranton camps if between them they spend a half million dollars on the San Francisco battleground for the Republican presidential nomination.

The advance guards for both Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, front-running contender for GOP choice, and Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, his chief rival, are now setting up headquarters high in the Mark Hopkins Hotel atop San Francisco's Nob Hill.

Other campaign offices are springing up around town and at the Cow Palace, the site for next week's convention meetings, about six miles from downtown San Francisco as the crow flies.

Goldwater press aide Ed Nellor estimated today that the outlay for Goldwater operations in San Francisco could total perhaps $250,000 — "not any less than that."

Scranton press man Howard Burnett figured expenses at around $200,000.

These are just ballpark estimates at this point. The actual bills can't be totaled up until after the convention ends next week.

The budding headquarters are a-bustle with political activities contrasting with the normal serenity of the hotel suites overlooking the Golden Gate Bridge.

Two of the Goldwater rooms have been converted into dormitories for staff members sleeping where they work. Each room—one for men, one for women—will now sleep eight.

The Scranton suites display such businesslike identification signs as "Control and Operations"—meaning the master control center—"Press," "Research," and "Itinerary." Other rooms are earmarked for contacting delegates and arranging transportation.

Both headquarters abound in electronic — age gadgets ranging from multiline telephones to walkie — talkies and television gear.

The Goldwater quarters appear to be larger. Nellor indicated this would be due to the combining of sleep and work areas for the staff. He said there would be a staff of 40.

Burnett said about 50 would man the Scranton operation, plus 70 to 80 who are coming to San Francisco to contact delegates. Pro-Scranton volunteers will also have a headquarters on Market Street downtown, he said.

Both Goldwater and Scranton headquarters have hired private policemen to keep out unwanted visitors. Both are setting up separate rooms for news media many floors below.

As plans now stand, the Goldwater and Scranton press rooms are so close that a wrong turn could put a newsmen in the middle of one news conference when he's trying to get to the other.

Desalting Plant Built at Guantanamo

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Civilian contractors are working night and day to complete assembly of a water desalting plant at the Guantanamo naval base in Cuba by Aug. 1, the Navy said today.

Conceivably, they could have the plant producing about 750,000 gallons of fresh water a day by July 26.

That could be symbolic of U.S. determination to hold the base, since July 26 is the date Fidel Castro reverses the anniversary of the day he started his drive to unseat the Batista regime.

The Navy said 168 civilian workers are on 16 and 18-hour shifts assembling a saline water conversion plant shipped to Guantanamo from Point Loma, Calif., after Castro turned off the base's fresh water supply within his territory last February.

Castro acted, he said, because the United States had seized some Cuban fishermen inside U.S. waters. Later, Castro offered to resume supplying fresh water to the base. He had been receiving $14,000 a month for the water before he cut it off.

The United States spurned the offer. Rear Adm. John D. Bulkeley, Guantanamo's commander, cut the pipeline leading from Cuba. The United States announced its intention to make the base self-sufficient.

In addition to moving the water desalting plant from California, the Navy arranged for construction of two additional units and a power generating plant at Guantanamo.

The Navy reported these two units, being built from the ground up, will be operating by December.

When all three desalting units are humming, they will produce about 2.2 million gallons of fresh water a day — a bit more than the base's normal needs.

The base is still dependent on two Navy tankers shuttling between Guantanamo and Port Everglades, Fla., carrying more than four million gallons apiece.

LBJ Sends Mission Quietly to Dixie

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is sending two former Southern governors on a quiet mission back to Dixie.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, former governor of North Carolina, and LeRoy Collins, former governor of Florida, will explain the Community Relations Service of the new Civil Rights Act during a tour of Southern state capitals beginning next week.

Johnson appointed Collins director of the Community Relations Service which will be organized in Hodges' Commerce Department.

Officials said the Hodges-Collins tour is being conducted without fanfare because its purpose is to gain understanding among Southern executives and not to arouse antagonism or generate publicity.

Goldwater Says Scranton Shows 'No Progress'

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign director said today he doesn't think Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton is "making any progress in chipping away delegates" from the Arizona's column.

Denison Kitchel, general director of the Goldwater campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, said his forces "can't find any evidence" that Scranton is subtracting delegates from the Goldwater total — now at 710 in an Associated Press survey.

This includes 118 votes committed by state primary elections, 257 by instructions, 62 by personal pledges and 273 by personal preference without pledge.

Kitchel stopped short of claiming Goldwater has won his race to head the GOP ticket, saying only that he is optimistic.

"We've got a cushion right now of maybe about 75 delegates," Kitchel said in an interview.

It will take 655 votes to choose the party's nominee.

Kitchel said he hopes the Goldwater count will be even higher when the San Francisco convention takes its first presidential ballot a week from Wednesday.

By that time, he said, some favorite son candidates may have withdrawn and Goldwater may have inherited some of the delegate votes they now control.

The Goldwater campaign chairman said he sees little likelihood now of a major battle over the GOP platform being hammered out by the convention resolutions committee.

On one reported Scranton demand—that the platform declare the Civil Rights Act constitutional—Kitchel said the Goldwater forces are ready to do battle. Goldwater voted against the measure, questioning its constitutionality.

Kitchel said an attempt to get a declaration of constitutionality into the platform would be ridiculous and an effort to "constitute the Republican party as a judicial body."

Oscar Can Be Costly, French Actress Finds

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The French are supposed to be sharp with a buck but Simone Signoret owns an Oscar that cost her some $450,000.

The French actress is back in Hollywood for the first time since she won the Academy Award in 1960 for "Room at the Top."

"Jimmy Woolf the producer offered me a healthy percentage of the picture or $50,000 cash. I took the cash."

"As of now, the percentage would have netted me $500,000."

"We knew we had a good script but when we made the picture in England, there was no one in the cast who dreamed that it ever would be the success it has become."

The movie recently was sold to television—and that best actress Oscar may cost her even more.

Simone is here playing a haddessed contessa in Stanley Kramer's "Ship of Fools."

"I had been offered many scripts but I had always admired Stanley's work so when he beckoned, I came. Now that I'm here working for him, I don't like him. He's a slave driver."

But she was only needing the affable Kramer.

This time, she didn't bring her husband, Yves Montand, with her.

"He is doing very well in Paris on the stage in 'A Thousand Clowns.'"

"Yves had a few disasters in Hollywood."

I recalled "Sanctuary" to her, the first Hollywood film ever made by Tony Richardson, the director who won this year's award for "Tom Jones." Starring Yves and Lee Remick, it laid a boxoffice egg.

"And don't forget the picture he made first, 'Let's Make Love,' she reminded with a knowing wink. A Frenchwoman can speak volumes with a wink."

That was the picture in which the late Marilyn Monroe developed quite a crush on Montand. She was really crushed when, in true Gallic tradition, he went back to his wife.

Has Simone got a piece of "Ship of Fools?"

"Mais non," she answers. "But this time I'm getting $150,000 plus expenses. I'm learning."

Adenauer Starts New Career as Opposition Chief

By CARL HARTMAN

Bonn, Germany (AP)—Former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is starting a new political career at the age of 88—leader of the opposition to his successor's foreign policy.

It's a low key opposition, but opposition none the less.

Adenauer believes Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government should work more closely with French President Charles de Gaulle Erhard, with the American attitude in mind, is wary of De Gaulle.

France and West Germany, Adenauer told this correspondent in an interview Monday, are not significant separately but together they can form a dike against Soviet penetration into Europe.

He quoted De Gaulle as saying: "I am for German reunification because I don't want to wake up one morning and hear that the Russians are on the banks of the Rhine."

France and West Germany would form a stronger dike, Adenauer says, if other European nations, including Britain, could be brought to join them. But he has little trust in Britain—especially since he is convinced that Britain is soon going to have a Labor government. It's not that he considers the Labor party to be Communist. He feels that even the British Conservatives lean too much toward Moscow.

Adenauer insists that his friendship for De Gaulle is not directed against the United States, but he feels the need to remind Washington repeatedly of the dangers he sees in trusting Soviet Premier Khrushchev. He appears to share De Gaulle's idea that the United States is turning too much of its attention toward Red China.

De Gaulle and Adenauer had a long talk on Friday that made De Gaulle 10 minutes late for a joint French-West German Cabinet meeting. Adenauer said he had accepted De Gaulle's invitation to visit Paris in the fall.

It was generally thought last October, when he relinquished the chancellorship to Erhard, that Adenauer would fade quietly into political oblivion. He had no such intention.

He got a small but well appointed office in the Bundeshaus West Germany's Capitol, and insisted on remaining chairman of the Christian Democratic party. He writes and speaks with the energy and clarity of a man 30 years younger.

He keeps his opposition on a careful, polite plane, though he opposed Erhard as his successor, he maintains outwardly friendly relations with him so as not to endanger the precarious unity of his party or its chances in the 1965 election.

Adenauer is known as a man of few, simple and clear ideas. One is unalterable opposition to communism. Another is the conviction that the Communists are thinking more about taking over Germany than anything else.

He tests every turn in foreign affairs against those ideas.

Rocky Launches On Building of GOP Platform

By EDMOND LEBRETON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller tries today to sell to a platform committee made up mostly of Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters the kind of planks Goldwater wouldn't like.

The New York governor's appearance on a day of Republican platform hearings largely devoted to civil rights coincides with a grim drive by backers of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton. They hope to give their trailing candidate an assist through a platform fight centering on controversial positions taken by the Arizona senator.

They looked to Rockefeller, backing Scranton since Goldwater knocked him out of the race, for help toward such goals as a strong platform position on the constitutionality of the new civil rights law and a condemnation of organizations like the militant John Birch Society.

Scranton sent his troops to battle on these two issues when he wrote the platform committee chairman, Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, his views on what the party statement should contain.

The letter, made public Monday, also called for recognizing a federal role in efforts against poverty.

Scranton backed, as well, a constitutional amendment partly to reverse the recent Supreme Court decision that both houses of state legislatures must be based on population; more initiative in foreign policy and tougher measures against the Cuban Communist regime, and more health assistance for the aged—but not, as the Johnson administration proposes, through the Social Security system.

Goldwater voted against the civil rights bill and said two major sections of it are unconstitutional. He has come out against a general denunciation of Birch Society members, although he criticized the president of the society, Robert Welch.

The fight over the platform eventually could be brought to the floor of the convention. The platform committee organized and started its hearings Monday night without a formal challenge from the minority.

However, Rep. Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts accused the committee, which he said contains about 70 per cent Goldwater supporters, of preparing undemocratic procedures to ram through a party statement he said is already largely written.

Conte and about a dozen other committee members attended a three-hour meeting called by Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Scranton's convention manager, to try to put together a common front on such issues as a declaration that the Civil Rights Act is constitutional.

Scott said afterward the meeting produced "rather general agreement" on a number of issues, but that there might be individual reservations on some and in any case nobody was bound.

Rep. Abner W. Sibal of Connecticut drafted a proposed plank of extremism.

Without debate the platform committee confirmed Laird as chairman and authorized him to name committees—including the key one to draft the platform.

Racial Violence Being Feared in British Guiana

By CARL BLACKMAN

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—A new upsurge of racial violence was feared in this tense British crown colony today after the bombing of a river launch carrying about 70 Negroes.

At least 10 laborers were reported killed in the blast from a time bomb Monday and another 23, including 8 children, were missing.

A shortwave broadcast from British Guiana, heard in Miami, said at least 20 persons were killed in a bombing Monday night. Details were not given, and it was not clear whether the broadcast referred to the bombing of the launch or another attack.

British army helicopters, police launches and private boats combed the muddy waters of the Demerara River for survivors from the launch.

This colony of 600,000 on South America's northern coast has been wracked for months by racial clashes between East Indians and Negroes. The East Indians slightly outnumber the Negroes.

The launch was blown up 25 miles from Wismar village, opposite the bauxite town of Mackenzie. Survivors said the explosion came from cargo bags 12 feet from the engine room.

Fearing reprisals by the Negro population at Mackenzie, police put East Indians in the area under protective custody. Gov. Sir Richard Luyt ordered all arms seized in the area.

Mackenzie was the scene of fire riots a month ago in which nearly 200 houses were destroyed. The entire East Indian population was evacuated to Georgetown.

A strike in the sugar industry triggered clashes between workers on racial lines in January. Since then the rival groups have been terrorizing and attacking each other in an intermittent wave of burnings and murder.

Before the launch bombing, 61 persons had been killed in riots.

Philippine Officer to Teach at AFA

A graduate of the Philippine Military Academy who fought with guerrilla units against the Japanese in World War II is the first representative of the island nation assigned to the Air Force Academy under the exchange officer program.

Lt. Col. Aurelio S. Ugalde will spend the next two years at the Academy teaching aeronautics. The colonel was a cadet at the Philippine Academy when World War II broke out. He fought with guerrilla units until return of American forces.

Col. Ugalde, however, is no stranger to the U.S. He attended the Provost Marshall General School at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. in late 1945 through early 1946.

During his long military career, Col. Ugalde has been commander of the Philippine Air Force (PAF), Technical Inspection Branch chief of the PAF Inspector General, Maintenance Squadron commander at Basa Air Base, Logistics chief and executive officer at PAF headquarters, and deputy commander of the PAF AC & W group.

He came to the Academy from an assignment as director of the Philippine-wide AFROTC training program.

Lodge Declares Encouragement For Scranton

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge arrived in San Francisco Tuesday night with a declaration that he was "tremendously encouraged" by his visit to Kansas and Missouri in support of Gov. William W. Scranton's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The former ambassador to South Viet Nam said he believes the pressure of public opinion will swing delegates away from Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater to Pennsylvania's Scranton as the time for voting approaches in the Republican National Convention.

Lodge was received at the airport by several hundred persons, some of whom carried "Lodge" banners.

He insisted that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, although he has made no public statement, can be counted as a supporter of Scranton.

Asked whether he thinks the general will make a definite statement before the opening of the convention on Monday, Lodge said:

"I think he will say something, but I don't think it's necessary."

Asked whether he had swung any delegates away from Goldwater to Scranton in Kansas and Missouri, Lodge replied, "I think so."

In his travels in Kansas and Missouri, Lodge concentrated his efforts primarily on the public rather than the delegates, appealing for a flood of letters and telegrams from Scranton supporters as the best way to turn the tide.

India's Communist Party Split in Two

MADRAS, India (AP)—India's Communist party, long plagued by internal bickering, has split in two with the birth of a Peking-oriented party.

Diehard extremists formed the new party at a five-day convention that opened Tuesday in Tenali, in Andhra State. In attendance were 135 delegates from West Bengal, Karela, Madras and Andhra.

The move came after two weeks of violence between the two communist factions in Andhra during which 2,000 houses were burned. Police arrested 82 people from both factions on arson charges.

CHRISTIAN CLERGYMEN AT JEWISH INSTITUTE

CINCINNATI (AP)—More than 100 Christian clergymen and scholars have received graduate-level, privately endowed fellowships for study at Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion since 1947.

Mostly Ph.D. candidates, and representing all Christian denominations, they spend two to four years broadening their understanding of the origins of Christianity. Most are preparing for teaching and preaching careers in their denominations' schools or churches.

Fellowships and scholarships so far have totaled more than $300,000. The college's president, Dr. Nelson Glueck, is founder of the project. Among other things, he says, it's hoped that both Christians and Jews will learn "that the human heart is big enough to embrace all men and that the divine spirit is within all of us."

Cerrudo Reigns as Medallist In Trans-Miss Tournament

By TOM CUSHMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer
While construction proceeds on a new nine holes for the Broadmoor Golf Course, a robust youth from Castro Valley, Calif. is threatening to tear up the existing Championship 18.

Ron Cerrudo, a 19-year-old graduate of Chabot Junior College in San Leandro, Calif., entered today's first round of match play in the Trans-Mississippi Tournament at the lush local course carrying the favorite's tag. His credentials were a pair of 68s he put back-to-back in easing to the medalist honors.

Cerrudo's second straight three-under-par round Tuesday gave him a two-stroke edge over Fletcher Jones of Los Angeles who finished at 138. Behind those two came former Trans-Miss runner-up, Ed Hopkins of Dallas. Hopkins' 69 was one of Tuesday's best rounds and left him with a 36-hole score of 139.

Two other golfers also slipped beneath par during the two days of qualifying. Jerry Potter of Miami, the medalist in the recent NCAA Tournament which was played over the same course, matched Cerrudo's 68 Tuesday and finished at 141. Jim Weichers of Menlo Park, Calif. followed an opening day 69 with a 72 Tuesday and also had a 141.

Thus the way was cleared for the five days of match play which will eventually determine the 1964 Trans-Miss champion. Cerrudo led the parade off the first tee this morning in a match against Dallas Peters of Champaign, Ill. Weichers was to go some 20 minutes later with Fred Mueller of Norbeck, Md. as a playing partner.

Hopkins' first round opponent was Nicky Brice of Robstown, Tex. Jones was to play Roger Brown of Arkansas City, Kan., and Potter was paired with Jim Rhein of Chula Vista, Calif.

Those were the matches involving the sub-par qualifiers, but a long glance down the 64-man Championship Flight quickly reveals that it is jammed with outstanding talent. Wyoming champ, turned in a Houston University's NCAA 151 and was to meet Bruce Wilkinson (147) of Ardmore, Okla. this morning. Dr. Tom Messinger had a 132 and was paired with Richard Killian (149) of Lawton, Okla. Former Pikes Peak Invitational winner, Jim Phelps, skied to an 80 Tuesday after an opening-round 73 and missed the cutoff by a single stroke. He did qualify for the President's Flight, however, and was to play Joe Sturges of Albuquerque, N.M. today.

One of the more interesting pairings, from a local standpoint, was that of Irwin and Tom Reed of Broomfield in the Championship Flight. Just two weeks ago it was this same pair that battled down to the final hole in the State Medal Play Tournament at the Air Force Academy with Irwin finally prevailing.

The run for the title promises to be a wide-open struggle, but if the California strongman, Cerrudo, maintains his pace of the first two days, it's going to be a tough battle. The youthful better, who has won eight of nine medal play tournaments this year, had amazing success on the deceptive Broadmoor greens on his two qualifying rounds. "I made a lot of 10 and 12 foot putts," Cerrudo said following Tuesday's workout. Recalling his round, he recalled holing out from 10 feet on the first hole, 15 feet on the third, 15 feet at the sixth, 19 feet at the seventh, and 10 feet at the 16th.

Cerrudo's brilliant round included seven birdies, giving him a total of 13 for the two days, and could easily have been a couple of strokes better except for a temporary misfortune at the 492 yard 11th. There he attempted to slice off a dogleg by clubbing his drive over a long avenue of trees but caught some foliage about 50 yards off the tee and dropped into a double-bogey.

Cerrudo's opponents won't be able to relax should they have a lead near the end of a round either, as the California star has shown a definite flair for dramatic finishes. On both of his qualifying rounds, he birdied three of the final four holes.

In addition the bracket includes such standouts as Sherman Finger, the All-American from Southern California, Colorado's match play champion, Larry McAttee; Pikes Peak Invitational champ Gary Polumbus of Denver, Kansas Amateur champion Jim Vickers of Wichita, Colorado medal play winner Hale Irwin of Boulder, and numerous others with impressive records behind them.

Locally, two golfers qualified for the championship bracket. Wally Goodwin, coach at Fountain Valley School and a former quickly reveals that it is jammed with outstanding talent. Wyoming champ, turned in a Houston University's NCAA 151 and was to meet Bruce Wil-

Housewife Carries Canada Olympic Hopes

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — One year of gruelling track work and a year of competitive running have made Irene Piotrowski, a 23-year-old Vancouver housewife, one of the fastest women in Canada.

The fleet-footed brunette is one of Canada's hopes in sprint events at the Olympic Games in Tokyo this fall. She is the Canadian record holder in the 100-meter and 100-yard events.

Mrs. Piotrowski is in California where she will compete in the United States' Amateur Athletic Union's women's track and field meet beginning Thursday.

Irene, who trains at least six days every week, has been in Hanford since Monday working out under the hot California sun. Her husband Heinz, a Vancouver bartender, is her coach.

The grade school teacher set a Canadian record of 11.7 in the 100 meters meet here last weekend. She eclipsed the Canadian women's record in the 100 yards with a 10.6 performance at Bellingham, Wash., last month.

The Sertoma baseball team — undefeated leader in the American Legion "A" pennant chase — is a strong favorite to record its seventh straight win Wednesday night in the second outing of a twin bill engagement at Memorial Field.

In the opening game Wednesday, the second place berth will be broken, at least temporarily, when Rotary tangles with the Elks. Game time is set for 6:30 p.m. Both teams are presently lodged in the runner-up slot behind Sertomas via 3-3 won-loss records.

Last Sunday the bull-pen strong Sertoma aggregation virtually clinched the Legion "A" championship with a 2-1 squeaker over the Rotary news. That same day, the Elks moved into a two-way tie for second place with a 5-1 triumph over the winless Lions.

Former American Leaguer Callison Knots All-Star Series for National

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It took the National League 31 years to draw even with the American in All-Star warfare Tuesday and in the end it was an ex-American Leaguer who did it.

Wondrous Willie Mays, as usual, starred in the field and on the bases. Billy Williams and Ken Boyer smashed home runs. Jim Bunning and Juan Marichal pitched superbly. But the hero of the National's 7-4 triumph was Johnny Callison, who was not even voted on the All-Star team.

Callison, a personal pick by Manager Walter Aulton, came up in the bottom of the ninth inning with two out, two on and the score tied at 4-4. He walloped Dick Radatz' first pitch into the second deck over the right field bullpen to square the All-Star series at 17 victories apiece.

After the 1949 game, the AL lost 12-4. The NL has won 13, lost 5 and tied one of the last 19. The 25-year-old Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder, selected by Aulton as the 25th man because of the National League's need for left-handed pinch hitting strength, had entered the game in the fifth inning, hitting for pitcher Jim Bunning.

"He beat us enough," said Aulton, managing his sixth winning All-Star squads in nine attempts. "I figured he owed us something."

In a recent series at Los Angeles, Callison hit two home runs in two games against Aulton's Dodgers.

Next to Radatz, the most charged man on the American League squad was Manager Al Lopez, who has yet to be on a winning All-Star squad. He lost four times as a manager, twice as a player and three times as a coach.

any special pleasure out of beating his old boss. "I never faulted Loez for trading me," he said. "I draw even with the American because I would have more of an opportunity to play with Philadelphia."

Callison said he hit a belt-high fast ball for the home run. "This was the first time I had ever seen Radatz," he said. "But it was enough to convince me that he can throw as hard as anyone in our league."

"I was looking for the fast ball and he happened to throw it. Yes, I knew it was gone the moment I hit it," Radatz, Boston's brilliant relief pitcher, was invincible in the seventh and eighth innings when he struck out four of the six batters he faced.

The giant right-hander, who has been dubbed "The Monster" by opposing hitters, was nursing a 4-3 lead when Willie Mays opened the ninth by drawing a walk.

Willie, who had contributed two sparkling plays in the field although going hitless, promptly stolen second. Orlando Cepeda singled to short right. Mays, holding up because he feared the ball might

Local Semi-Pro Team Plays Saturday

The newly formed Colorado Springs Athletic Club, which launched its season with a 14-1 triumph over a Ft. Carson team two weeks ago, will attempt to pick up a pair of wins this week-end.

The local semi-pro team is preparing for the forthcoming Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament scheduled to be conducted at Hugo, Colo., starting July 22.

Under the new guidance of player-coach Bob Mewes, the Colorado Springs Athletic Club team will host the Jones Mor-tuary team from Pueblo this day Saturday night at Memorial Field at 8:30 p.m.

Then on Sunday, the local squad will journey to Breckenridge to play a team from the Rocky Mountain Baseball Camp. That game is slated for 1 p.m. at Breckenridge.

Although there will be no admission charges for Saturday night's game against the Pueblo team, the Colorado Springs Athletic Club will pass the hat. All money from the game will go to help defray expenses to the Semi-Pro Colorado Springs Athletic Club team which is scheduled to run four-ty team from Pueblo this day

In the local team's opening victory, Bob Gill, and Ron Anderson shared the mound duty against the Ft. Carson team during the five-inning onslaught. After the Ft. Carson team scored its only tally in the first inning off Gill, a former Colorado State College standout and present member of the Wasson high school athletic staff, the Colorado Springs Athletic Club nine struck out for 16 hits.

Mickey McLaughlin, who plays at St. Benedict's College during the spring, led the attack for the local team with three hits. Six other players had two hits apiece. Included in the 16-hit assault were a pair of doubles by Mewes, a triple by Dave Chase, and two-baggers by McLaughlin and Mike Hulbert. Mewes and Chase are former Wasson stars and Hulbert played his high school ball at Cheyenne Mountain high school.

Anderson, who was a stand-out at Palmer high school and Western State College, left the

Academy's Murphy In Olympic Trials

The possibility of a Falcon mer Oregon great, while the athlete competing in the 1964 Olympics came one step closer to reality last weekend when the Air Force Academy's fleet-footed Jim Murphy finished fifth in the 5000-meter event of the U. S. Olympic Track and Field Trials, held in New York.

Murphy will next compete in the finals slated for Sept. 12-13 in Los Angeles. The top two winners in each of the Los Angeles events will join last week's winners in comprising the United States' 1964 Olympic team.

In Friday's race, which he called "the hardest one I ever ran," Murphy clocked in at 14:18.2 four spots back from the winner — Bob Schul — who posted a 14:10.8 time.

Although it was much slower than his co-winning time in the NCAA championships (14:12.3), Murphy's energy had been drained by days of excessive heat and humidity prior to the meet, and — in addition — he finished with a completely blistered foot.

Coach Arne Arnesen, Jim's mentor, called his New York showing a "great job," and feels that Murphy is the only athlete today who has a chance to up-end Bill Dellinger and Gerry Lindgren in September for an Olympic slot. Dellinger is a for-

Horse Wins Without Jockey at Inglewood

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Ken Church lost, but the horse won.

Church was tossed Tuesday by Adeline's Pride during the parade past the stands at Hollywood Park. He suffered a dislocated shoulder.

Kiwanis, Indians Cop Junior Men's Games

The Kiwanis Club exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning to score a come-from-behind victory over the Mets Tuesday night at Memorial Field in Junior Men's League baseball.

The Cheyenne Indians clubbed the Garden Lane Mustangs 13-7 in another tilt.

Kiwanis, who had been stopped on only three hits by Met pitcher Dave King through the first six innings, erupted for six hits in the final frame to erase a 3-1 Met lead.

A two-base error in the outfield on catcher Clyde Benson's fly ball started off the Kiwanis rally. Following a walk and a fielder's choice, leftfielder Leonard Hancock lashed a one-out

Spokane's Johnson Top Hitter in PCL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Spokane's Lou Johnson leads Pacific Coast League hitters with a .343 batting average, according to PCL statistics released today.

Johnson also has the most doubles, 20, while Tony Perez of San Diego is tops in the home run department with 24 and has the most RBIs, 76.

Santos Alomar of Denver leads the league in triples with 10, and Tacoma's Jose Cardinal has the most stolen bases, 28.

Wilson Leading At Pueblo

PUEBLO — With Pueblo Greyhound Park's racing season past the one-third mark, the Cecil W. Wilson kennel, which will race later in the year at Colorado Springs, has forged into the lead as the top producer of winners.

Joe Mamino, whose dogs include Amperex and who also will race at Colorado Springs, was in second place in the latest weekly compilation.

Wilson's dogs include S1 Reed, Oruga Road, Happy Hook and Ski Lady. In the latest compilation, the top 10 kennels among the 19 represented were (ranked according to the win column):

Gosline Paces Flyers YAL Win Over Tigers

Mark Gosline fired a six-inning no-hitter to pitch the Air Force Academy Flyers to a 7-0 win over the Tigers Tuesday night in Young American League Heavyweight baseball at Monument Valley Park.

Gosline struck out six and walked three. Shortstop Dan Brereton had a pair of singles to pace the Flyer attack.

Baroness Tries To Ban Boxing Over Television

LONDON (AP) — Baroness Summerskill, public enemy No. 1 of boxing in Britain, tried unsuccessfully Tuesday to get the government to ban boxing on television.

She asked in the House of Lords whether the government would prohibit the televising of boxing programs which she said "are calculated to glorify boxing in the eyes of impressionable youth."

The Bishop of Exeter was one of those who opposed her. Baroness Summerskill, 53, year-old laborite life peeress, has spent years campaigning against boxing.

She told the lords: "The nation is concerned with increasing hooliganism and delinquency. Is it in the interests of the less intelligent to have these fights brought right into the home, where it is taught that fist fighting is praiseworthy?"

Earl Ferrers, replying for the government, said boxing was a sport in which a large number of people found enjoyment. He said it would not be appropriate for the government to interfere with the independence of television organizations in choosing their own programs.

The Bishop of Exeter said television boxing might do some good by showing these are rules to be observed and it is wrong to kick people when they are down.

Baroness Summerskill declared that television viewers are "a captive audience."

Bears Bomb Okla. City; Hold Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — The Denver Bears clung to their half-game lead in the Pacific Coast League's Eastern Division in convincing fashion Tuesday night—by hammering out 18 hits for a 15-2 victory over Oklahoma City in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

Denver trotted 13 men to the plate in a nine-run second inning to begin the romp. Oklahoma City, in third place 1½ games behind, won the opener 4-3 as Chuck Dees slammed a three-run homer in the first inning.

Second-place Arkansas kept pace by salvaging a split in a twinbill with Indianapolis. The Travelers topped the second game 5-2, but lost the opener 6-3 when Ken Berry poled a homer with the bases loaded in the last inning.

Another dramatic last-inning homer by rookie second sacker Tito Fuentes, gave Tacoma a 3-1 victory over Seattle. There were two out when the 20-year-old Fuentes, up from the Texas League, drilled a liner over the left field fence just inside the foul line.

Seattle's Wilbur Wood carried a 1-0 lead into the ninth but a hit batter sacrifice and run-scoring single set the stage for Fuentes' game-winning blast.

Dallas and Salt Lake City traded excellent pitching performances in their doubleheader. Paul Jaeckel handed Dallas its 12th shutout of the year, 4-0, in the opener as he spaced four hits for his eighth win. Cliff Davis spun a three-hitter as Dallas took the second game 2-1. Davis had hurled 11 consecutive hitless innings before the Bees scratched an unearned run in the seventh on one hit.

Hawaii's Islanders suffered their ninth straight loss, dropping a 10-7 slugfest to San Diego. Hawaii scored four runs in the first, with Cal Emery hitting his 16th homer, a solo shot. But the Padres came back with five in the third as Tony Perez slammed two runs across to raise his league-leading total to 79.

Portland's Western Division leaders humbled Spokane 10-1 as Luis Tiant notched his 14th win against a single loss. Tiant fanned seven as the Beavers racked up 17 hits, including Duke Sims' homer.

Callison 'Repays' NL Pilot Alston For Damage Against His Dodgers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "He's beat us enough. I figured he owed me something."

Walt Alston was laughing. His Los Angeles Dodgers recently whipped the American League's National League's Eastern Division in a four-run rally in the 7-4 in Tuesday's All-Star game, last of the ninth with a three-victories apiece with one tie.

"Callison's a great all-around player, that's one of the reasons

Annual U.S. Women's Golf Tourney Starts Thursday

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — and Sandra Haynie, who tied led by Defending Champion for second last year, Ruth Jes-Lary Mills and three-time winner, Carol Mann, Shirley Engle-Mickey Wright, a field of 100 women, will start the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship on Thursday.

The setting is the par 73, 6,470-yard San Diego Country Club course which, for tall, blonde Miss Wright, holds few mysteries.

A hometown product, Mickey, who now calls Dallas home, has played the course "hundreds of times."

The layout is well populated with eucalyptus trees, a rolling topography and is rated by many of the girls as among the toughest that they play around the nation.

Miss Mills, from Gulf Hills, Miss., won the title at Cincinnati's Kenwood Club. Miss Wright did not compete in the 1963 open which is held under the auspices of the U.S. Golf Association.

There were 58 formal entries, a figure somewhat under the field in recent years. The field will be trimmed to the low 40 and ties after the first two rounds Thursday and Friday.

The girls, as in the case in the national men's open, will play 36 holes Saturday.

Other former champions are Kathy Cornelius of Scottsdale, Ariz., the 1956 winner, and Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., who captured the first Women's Open at match play in 1946.

Other leading pros who submitted entries were Louis Suggs

400 Gals to Compete For U.S. Olympic Berths

HANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The nearly 400 athletes who will compete in the National AAU Women's Track and Field Championships here July 9-11 have a double incentive.

Aside from national titles, the women also will be gunning for berths on the women's team which will face the Soviet Union in a dual meet later this month. The first and second place finishers in each event qualify for the Russian meet, providing they are U.S. citizens.

This week's meet has an international flavor with at least four countries represented, including Canada, Mexico and Formosa.

Tennessee State is defending team champion and is a favorite to retain the title. Led by fleet Edith McGuire and Vivian Brown, Tennessee has entered about was Philadelphia's Johnny Callison, one of Alston's supplementary selections.

Callison, who hit two homers in two games against Alston's Los Angeles Dodgers recently, capped the National League's decisive four-run rally in the 7-4 in Tuesday's All-Star game, last of the ninth with a three-victories apiece with one tie.

"Callison's a great all-around player, that's one of the reasons I picked him," said Alston. "Then, too, I wanted some more left-handed hitting. Besides, the way he's hit against us, he owed me one."

Callison paid the debt with one swing — his first against Boston's Dick "The Monster" Radatz in the ninth.

"I was glad nobody said anything when I went up there," said Callison. "It might have scared me. Radatz is sneaky fast, so I was just looking for the first pitch to come over."

The first pitch came over, and went over the right field fence. "It was the first time I've ever seen Radatz," said the one-time American League "punch" pitcher. "He hit the ball in the seventh inning. He hit the ball to the outfield off me, and I thought I'd try him up high."

Callison's homer also beat his former boss, Al Lopez, of the Chicago White Sox who handled the American League team.

Callison said beating Lopez didn't give him any special pleasure. "You hit 170 and they don't keep you too long," Callison said.

For Lopez, it was something more. He has been in seven All-Star games and in the losing side that first pitch over, he said. "But I hit a homer off Sandy Koufax and I figure I can hit 'em off anybody."

So does Alston, who also League. "Then I know Koufax."

Early Most Valuable Vote Ends Up in the Trash Can

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Gentlemen, mark your ballots," said the voice over the loudspeaker.

It was the home half of the seventh inning of Tuesday's All-Star game, which may seem a silly time to vote for most valuable player.

After all, the winning pitcher hadn't even started to warm up yet.

"Remember Harry Truman," said a man who wanted to wait until the game was over.

A half-hour later Johnny Callison came to bat, hit the homer that won the game for the National League, and swept all the premature ballots into the same ash can where they put those old Dewey buttons.

It was a great day for the old cliches, and a bum one for poll takers.

Of late, the voting for most valuable player has been creeping up faster than a short-tailed shirt. Soon they might start voting before the game.

And as for those cliches, well, the game may not have been over until the last man was out — but the MVP voting was.

Anything might happen in the last inning — but you couldn't win the MVP title.

They already had the cup engraved.

One example: In the 1962 Pro Bowl football game, the great Jimmy Brown fumbled the game away five minutes after he had been announced the most valuable player.

Lema Off to Good Start In British Open Opener

By TOM REEDY
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Playing in gale winds, Lema finished with a 73 on Wednesday for a good start in the first round of the British Open Golf Tournament.

Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio Golden Bear who just missed this title last year, had only begun his round when Lema finished with a 45-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole.

The wind howled and blew scores high into the 70s and beyond.

Only two players among the early finishers managed to break par. Irish veteran Christy O'Connor and Jean Garraide of France. Both had 71s.

Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., the stocky ex-Marine who lost the title to Bob Charles in a playoff last year, managed a 74 after a poor start.

"I three-putted three greens but otherwise I played fairly well," Rodgers said.

Lema, winner of three recent titles on the U.S. tour who is playing in Britain for the first time, said of the course:

"It's a son of a gun. It's a fight to get your par on any hole."

Asked which was the most difficult Lema said: "The first 18."

The San Leandro, Calif., player said, however, that he enjoyed the par he got at 17—the road hole—when he hit a fine second shot and got down in two putts.

"I'll settle for a four on that hole any day," he said. "Give me three more hours on it and that will make me happy."

Doug Ford of Yonkers, N.Y., shot a 75, while two other members of the eight-man American contingent soared. Fifty-year-old Johnny Bulla had 78 and Bill Johnston had 77. Both are from Phoenix.

Johnston said: "There are some holes out there almost impossible to play in this wind."

Gary Player, former British Open winner and big money winner in the United States, skied to 78 with putter trouble.

"I've no excuses he said. I three-putted six of the first 11 holes."

Kel Nagle, who beat Arnold Palmer in a playoff for the 1960 title, had troubles, too, and finished with 77.

"It blew out there," said Nagle.

Veteran Dai Rees, former British Ryder Cup captain, had a peculiar 78 which included two drees. He holed a 100-yard wedge shot at the 18th for an eagle.

Colts Purchase Player From Farm

HOUSTON (AP) — Carroll Hardy, 31, right-hand hitting outfielder, has been purchased by the Houston Colt .45s from their Oklahoma City farm club, General Manager Paul Richards announced today.

Hardy replaces Rusty Staub, 20, who was optioned to the Braves Monday.

Hardy was hitting .316 at Oklahoma City with 14 home runs, 58 RBI, 15 doubles and six triples in 74 games.

Bruins Load McNabb To AHL Reds

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have loaned defenseman Larry McNabb to the Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

McNabb has been with San Francisco of the Western Hockey League for the past two years.

Civil Rights Lawsuit Prevention Sought

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges says the new Community Relations Service of his department will, if asked, attempt to prevent lawsuits resulting from the new civil rights law.

Hodges, former Florida Gov. LeRoy Collins, who has been named to head the new service, said Tuesday after a meeting with Virginia Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. Afterward, the group went to Raleigh, N.C. to meet with North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

"We have no program, no suggestions to offer on how to run the states," Hodges said.

ANCIENT COSTS HOUSTON (UPI) — Those who sell old objects want new prices for them. Forty antique dealers recently formed an association to push for more up-to-date prices for their wares.

CC Director

Receives Special Merit Award

George Miller, director of public information at the Colorado College, has been awarded the American College Public Relations Association's "Certificate of Special Merit" for outstanding college news bureau operation.

The certificate was presented Sunday night, at an Honors Competition Awards Dinner at the opening of the association's 1964 National Conference at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Goldwater Gets New Press Secretary

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. John Goldwater of Oakland, Calif., has held several public relations positions.

Mrs. Milburn, women's editor of the Tucson Daily Citizen, declined to discuss her resignation, saying only, "There were many reasons."

Estate of Builder Valued $24 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The estate of Washington builder Morris Cafritz was valued at about $24 million, according to probate papers filed Monday in U.S. District Court.

The bulk of the estate, $20,569,412, was in the form of stock in corporations owned almost solely by him. Federal estate taxes were estimated at $3.1 million by a tax attorney.

Cafritz, 77, who died June 11, was survived by his widow, Gwen, a widely known Washington hostess, and three sons.

Four More Escape From Commie Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Four East Berliners escaped to the West today by ramming a truck through the barbed wire barricades on the West Berlin border, police reported.

East border guards fired two bursts from Tommy guns at the truck. But the fugitives, including an 18-year-old girl, scrambled through the demolished wire barrier unhurt.

ICE IN DEMAND

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's 2,500 ice houses apparently have survived the refrigerator and today look forward to record retail sales of $125 million in the packaged ice market this year. Tonnage sales, however, will be down, for the industry gradually shifted to crushed and cubed ice as the refrigerator cut down its bulk business.

Woodland Park News

By MRS. VERA ROBERTS 687-9398

Mr. and Mrs. Rio Evans are the parents of a son born June 27 at Memorial Hospital. The name Jeffery Howard has been chosen for this newcomer.

Push-Buttons To Grace HQ For Goldwater

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A push-button headquarters crammed with electronic gadgets to see all that can be seen will guide Sen. Barry Goldwater's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

No candidate has ever equipped himself so well to keep tabs on what's going on at a political convention.

Not only that: His committee has purchased time on San Francisco television and radio stations to provide periodic reports to delegates and alternates as well as to the public. Goldwater is a communications hobbyist with ham radio stations in Washington and Phoenix. While he hasn't had time to do any tinkering here, he undoubtedly will be happy with the system set up by his staff for next week's Republican convention.

The command post is the 15th floor of the Mark Hopkins Hotel, where the senator will live in a gold-carpeted three-room suite with a sweeping view of San Francisco's hills and bay.

The system includes television monitors for closed circuit cameras that will show where staff members are at the hotel and, when the scene of action changes, at the Cow Palace. A special board will record their whereabouts.

Direct telephones to the convention floor for immediate contact with Goldwater delegates and newsmen will be received on the 14th floor—elevator operators have strict orders not to stop at the 15th except for the senator and his family. Private police will guard all exits round the clock.

The 15th floor has about 20 rooms that will be occupied by Sen. and Mrs. Goldwater and staff. Two rooms have been designated as dormitories, with a special panel telephone.

Frenchman Convicted Of Spying for Reds

PARIS (AP)—George Paques, 50, a former French press officer for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has been convicted of spying for the Soviet Union and sentenced to life in prison.

In rejecting the prosecution's demand for the death penalty, the French state security court apparently accepted defense arguments that Paques was motivated by misguided patriotism.

Paques, was arrested last August. He admitted passing documents to Soviet agents but said he hoped to prevent Soviet misunderstanding of the Western allies' true intentions.

Laos Fighting Plane Makes Forced Landing

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Laotian air force announced today that one of its T28 fighter-bombers made a forced landing due to mechanical trouble on Monday at Phou Khao Khouay, 50 miles northwest of Vientiane. A communique said the propeller plane, one of a small force of T28's supplied by the United States, was returning from a bombing mission against Communist military targets.
